SECTION B (20 MARKS)

Combine the following sentences into a single sentence, using the process or processes indicated in brackets.

1. He searched through her closet. He was surprised at finding no incriminating evidence. (Coordination)
2. The students felt so relieved. The rains finally stopped. (Subordination)
3. The jury heard the case of the rapist. It ordered a new trial. The activists were greatly offended. (Coordination and Subordination)
4. I have visited you four times. You have visited me once. (Subordination)
5. I had a terrible day. My son broke out in measles at dawn. I missed my class for the second time. (Coordination)
6. I just graded her latest paper. She is capable of good work. She needs to be motivated. (Coordination)
7. The University's central committee reaches a decision today. The Students' Representative Council will not support such a confrontational attitude. (Coordination)
8. Several graduates do not know what to do after graduating. The universities need guidance experts to help them out. (Subordination).
9. There are too many hawkers on this campus. They leave the campus littered with garbage. They pose a health hazard. (Coordination and Subordination)
10. The messenger apologized for his sloppiness again. The supervisors paid no attention. They remembered the last time he rendered an apology for sloppiness. (Coordination and Subordination)

SECTION C (20 MARKS)

Rewrite the following sentences correcting any errors you may find without changing the meaning of the sentences

1. The outbreak of COVID-19 has taken the life of many imminent personalities.
2. When Ghana was persuaded to accept the legalization of LGBTQ+, the President stood on his grounds.
3. The entire population including its leaders appeal to the international community.
4. If in case you come across my missing son, kindly report to the nearest police station.
5. The President emphasized on the need to wear nose masks.
6. During the raining season, the road linking the three towns are always closed.
7. If I were the father of the raped girl, I would have slapped the rapist.
8. One computer for two or more students seem inadequate.
9. The police searched the cite of the notorious armed robber but they could not find any evidence.
10. The last group of fishermen to return home were the Ekusa group.

DESMOND Y. EKLU (THE GOVERNOR)

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST

COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND LEGAL STUDIES

FACULTY OF ARTS

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES

END-OF-FIRST SEMESTER EXAMINATION

2019/2020 ACADEMIC YEAR

CMS 107: COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS

DURATION: 2 HOURS DATE: 10/12/2019

.....

GENERAL INSTRUCTION: ATTEMPT ALL QUESTIONS

SECTION A

Read the following passage carefully and write an outline or summary of it. The summary should be between 90 and 120 words.

Governments argue that taxes are a necessary evil – the price we pay in a civilized society. Whether you agree with that sentiment or not, it is undeniable that the price is usually a high one. Taxes can be divided into two categories: direct and indirect. Income tax, corporate tax and property tax are examples of direct tax. Of these, income tax is probably the most resented. This is especially so in countries where income tax is progressive – the more you earn, the more you pay. Critics have an aversion for progressive taxes, for as they usually assert, these taxes are used as punitive and oppressive measures particularly aimed at those who have worked hard to build up their business.

Indirect taxes include sales tax, taxes on liquor and cigarettes, and customs duties. These are less visible than direct taxes but can still deal an economic blow, especially among the poor. According to the view of one writer, indirect taxes amount to more than 95% of total tax collections in some countries. Regrettably, workers who are normally affected by prices of commodities already made high by customs duties have a huge chunk of their income consumed by ever-mounting taxes. High taxes on items of mass consumption, such as soap and liquor evidently create this unfortunate situation.

The question is what do governments do with all the money they collect? The provision of basic and essential public utilities, such as facilities for schools and equipment for hospitals and infrastructure take vast sums of money from government coffers. The government imposes taxes in order to meet these obligations. In some countries, for example, one person in four works in the public sector. This includes teachers, postal workers, hospital personnel, the police, and other government workers. Taxes are needed to pay their salaries. Also, taxes have several other uses for many nations. For example, they may be used for the provision of social amenities. These may include clean water, electricity, hospitals, schools, roads and many others. Taxes have also been used to ensure a congenial atmosphere for healthy living. One magazine reports that Western European countries have introduced environmental tax mostly as a means of reducing air pollution. In some areas, progressive taxes are used to bridge the gap between the rich and the poor.

It has also been noted that in South Africa, for instance, taxes make up about 50% of the cost of alcohol and cigarettes to curb drinking and smoking. On the other hand, some governments spend tax payers' money to ensure peace and order in the society by rewarding those who conform to acceptable societal norms and punishing those who kick against the law. Thus taxes may serve as a tool to encourage or discourage certain forms of behaviour. Indeed, few people will acknowledge the benefits that taxes bring to their communities, but nobody would seriously argue that we will be better off without them.

(20 marks)

SECTION B

Rewrite the following passage and restore all the punctuation marks appropriately.

many of our youth run away from hardships at home, only to meet unbearable conditions abroad The youth as future leaders must be properly trained in readiness for life. Without any working experience, how can they run the affairs of the country in future? greater emphasis should be laid on vocational and technical training to enable the youth to be self employed. These were the words of the sector Minister at a public lecture, the country's economy must meet the true needs of young people for their survival and integration into society. In his book, seeking greener pastures, Bob James postulated that many teenage youth had been lured into foreign countries for better life but which becomes bitter on arrival at their final destinations. Despite the fact that many of our youth have returned to tell their horrible stories, others still venture overseas. unfortunately, those who lure them, give vivid stories of how honey flows in these European and Asian countries and which can transform their lives overnight

(10 marks)

SECTION C

Read the passage below carefully and do the following:

a. Identify the subject-verb agreement errors

b. Correct them

Do not copy the entire passage.

There are lots of facts to know about fungi. A plant without leaves, flowers or green colouring matter and which grow on other plants or decaying materials are called fungus. The cells of fungi are very small and possesses discrete membrane-bound nuclei. The concern of this discourse are to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of fungi to living organisms. A number of research has found some disadvantages of fungi. Fungi are disadvantageous to man because they destroy food, causes foot-rot, produce ringworm, damages industrial equipment and pollutes water. However, fungi are useful in fertilizing the soil and serving as source of food. Available statistics in most countries indicates that soil fungi make up 10 to 30 percent of soil rhizosphere. Furthermore, other advantages of fungi includes their industrial use for baking and brewing medicine and for the manufacture of organic substances.

(15 marks)

SECTION D

Combine the following sentences into a single meaningful sentence by the process or processes shown in bracket.

For example: Kwame pluck the orange. Kwame ate the orange. (Coordination)

Kwame plucked and ate the orange.

1. James always reports to work late. James expects other workers to report on time. (Coordination)
2. The driver is going your way. He can give you a lift. (Subordination)
3. The students can present the assignment online. The students can submit the assignment directly to their lecturer. (Coordination)
4. No one likes cockroaches in their homes. They are very dangerous. They spread dreadful diseases. (Subordination and Coordination)
5. The farmers worked very hard. The harvest was not good. (Subordination)
6. Very often parents annoy their children. Very often parents frustrate their children. (Coordination)
7. The stranger entered the lecture theatre. The instructor stopped speaking. The students were dumbfounded. (Subordination and Coordination)
8. Michael realized he had forgotten the tickets to the match. We missed the first half of the match. (Coordination)
9. The old miser died. His heirs started quarrelling over his property. (Subordination)
10. I left home early this morning. I was delayed in traffic. I missed my appointment. (Subordination and Coordination)

Semi colon bracket

(15 marks)

15/30

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES

FIRST SEMESTER 2018/2019 ACADEMIC YEAR

COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS: CMS 107

GROUP 44
QUIZ 1I

DURATION: 50 MINS

SECTION A (10 Marks)

Some of the verbs in the following passage agree with their subjects, others do not. Identify and correct any subject-verb errors. (Do not copy the passage)

As the country inch towards election 2012, the stakes for power is also becoming higher. That is why the Daily Graphic time and again draw attention to the lack of any definitive time frame for electioneering in Ghana. Thus, even before a new president as well as his cabinet members are sworn in, the battle lines are drawn for the next election sometimes by the Minority and even the ruling party. In other jurisdictions, the president together with members of parliament are given the free hand beyond the traditional 100 days' honeymoon to put his or her house in order.

Perhaps, looking at all that the country have gone through since 1993, and especially over the last two and a half years, it is time for the Inter Party Advisory Committee (IPAC) and other stakeholders to defines a limited political season so that the President and his team is supported to deliver on their mandate.

We know that all over the world governments are unable to fully achieve their mandate, but the situation is worsened if the attention of the Executive members are divided between pursuing its agenda and responding to criticism from opponents of the governments every day. Criticisms of all kind puts governments on their toes but a distinction must be drawn between needless attacks and constructive criticism. Recently, the President and other people raised their voices against the growing incidence of insults and the use of hate language against political opponents.

1. As the country inch towards election 2012, — stakes (wrong)
   As the country inch towards election 2012, — stake (correct)
2. A new president — are (wrong)
   A new president — is (correct)
3. the president together with members of parliament — are (wrong)
   the president together with members of parliament — is (correct)
4. looking at all that the country — have (wrong)
   looking at all that the country — has (correct)
5. and other stakeholders to — defines (wrong)
   and other stakeholders to — define (correct)
6. Criticisms of all kind — puts (wrong)
   Criticisms of all kind — put (correct)
7. the president and other people raised their — voices (wrong)
   the president and other people raised in air — Noise (correct)

05

SECTION B (10 Marks)

Rewrite the following passage restoring all punctuation marks and capital letters.

whos this tailor old man enquired you need to change your life the old man scolded it is a pity things have turned out that way How I wished my son were around the old man sighed Anyway times are hard so Ill let it go However, remember to buy a new material to replace the spoilt one Indeed the one that will fit the occasion the old man finally concluded.

"Whos this tailor," old man enquired, "You need to change your life." "Hey old man scolded, "It is a pity things have turned out that way. How I wished my son were around," the old man sighed. "Anyway times are hard so I'll let it go. However, remember to buy a new material to replace the spoilt one." "I need the one that will fit the occasion," the old man finally concluded.

06·5

SECTION C (10 Marks)

Re-write the following sentences, correcting any errors you may find without changing the meaning. (10 Marks)

1. Our lecturer informed us that he was going to abroad.
   Our lecturer informed us that he was going to abroad.
2. It is eminent that we protect ourselves from armed robbers.
   It is eminent that we protect ourselves from armed robbers.
3. Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet is a masterpiece.
   Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet", is a masterpiece.
4. The lecturer mistakenly packed his car my garage.
   The lecturer mistakenly packed his car in my garage.
5. It is always a preveledge to be a first year student of UCC.
   It is always a privilege to be a first year student of UCC.
6. Everybody was quite when we heard the bad news.
   Everyone was quite when we heard the bad news.
7. All the women came seeking for greener pastures.
   All the women came seeking greener pastures.
8. Although the text was easy, but most of as could not pass.
   Although the test was easy, but most of us could not pass.
9. Jonathan bought some stationary from the bookshop.
   Jonathan bought some stationeries from the bookshop.

03·5

UNIVERSITIY OF CAPE COAST

COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND LEGAL STUDIES

FACULTY OF ARTS

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES

END-OF-FIRST SEMESTER EXAMINATIONS

2018/19 ACADEMIC YEAR

CMS 107: COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS

DURATION: 2 HOURS DATE: 11/12/2018

GENERAL INSTRUCTION: ATTEMPT ALL QUESTIONS.

SECTION A

Study carefully the passage below, and, then, write an OUTINE or a SUMMARY of it.

Obesity is a condition that results from excessive storage of fat in the body. It is now usually defined, using a formula known as the body mass index (BMI), in which weight (in kilograms) is divided by height (in meters) squared. It has been estimated that roughly two thirds of American adults are overweight or obese, and that more than a third are obese.

Obesity is a major public health concern because it predisposes the individual to many disorders, such as non-insulin-dependent diabetes, hypertension, stroke, and coronary disease. It has been associated with an increased incidence of certain cancers, notably cancers of the colon, rectum, prostrate, breast, uterus, and cervix. Obese people are often ostracized, and discrimination against them, especially in hiring and promotion, is common.

Obesity research has shown a number of underlying causes of the condition. The simple cause is ingestion of more calories than are required for energy, the excess being stored in the body as fat. Inactivity and insufficient exercise can be contributing factors; the less active the person, the fewer calories are needed to maintain normal body weight. Another cause is overeating which may result from unhealthy patterns of eating established by the family and cultural environment. This may perhaps be exacerbated by psychological distress, an emotional dependence on food, or the omnipresence of high-calorie foods.

In some cases, obesity can come from an eating disorder. It has been shown, for example, that alcoholism for some people releases natural opiates in the brain, providing a sense of well-being and physical pleasure. Other studies have found a strong relationship between obesity in women and childhood sexual abuse.

Some weight-loss experts see obesity as based upon genetics and physiology. For example, rat studies have shown that fat cells secrete a hormone that helps the rat's brain assess the amount of body fat present. The brain tries to keep the amount of that hormone (which also appears to act on the brain area that regulates appetite and metabolic rate) at sea level, resulting in the so-called set point—a weight that the body comes back to, even after resolute dieting. The gene that encodes this hormone has been isolated in both rats and humans. In addition, a gene that influences obesity and the onset of diabetes has been identified. It has been estimated that from 8 to 30 different genes may influence obesity.

Radical treatments for weight loss have included wiring shut the jaw, operations that reduce the size of the stomach, and intestinal bypass operations circumventing a large area of the small intestine. Drugs to treat the condition now include orlistat (Xenical), which acts to block absorption of dietary fat in the intestine. The main possibility of treating obesity, however, remains diet and exercise, often coupled with emotional and behavioral support. The long-term weight-loss success of most attempts at dieting, however, is notoriously low. Groups such as Overeaters Anonymous, modeled after Alcoholics Anonymous, give support to people with weight problems and eating disorders.

(30 MARKS)

SECTION B

Restore all punctuation marks in the following passage.

Few weeks ago, the Kwame Nkrumah university of science and technology was close down indefinitely following a violent demonstration by some students of the university. the demonstration by the students of the university against what they termed, tyrannical style of the university administration, turned unpleasant, leading to the massive destruction of public and private property. Media reports indicated that, the items destroyed included the following, cars, furnitures, computers, bill boards, flower pots et cetera. It will not be far fetched to conclude that, the remote cause of the riot is linked to the decision by the university to convert some of the halls into mixed halls. At a round-table discussion organized by a section of the public to deliberate on the matter at stake, the chairperson remarked, lets ensure sanity prevails in our educational institutions therefore we call for an amicable resolution to the current challenges confronting the university.

(10 MARKS)

SECTION C

Read the following passage, and correct any subject-verb agreement errors.

For the past few years and particularly this year, there has been a number of grave concerns expressed by many Ghanaians regarding either safety conditions as-well as security that prevails in the country. The migration of people in the major cities with limited chances of gainful jobs have also increased instances of many crimes. This set of unfortunate situations in Ghana lead to the undermining of development and progress of our country if drastic measures, as a matter of fact, is not taken to address them. As a country, we have to take a second look at our security agencies, particularly the Ghana Armed Forces which more often combats criminal activities. The government should resource the security agencies adequately to enable them to fight crime effectively. Even though it is the primary responsibility of the state to ensure the security of either the strong or the weak who lives in the country. We need to understand that security in conjunction with safety mechanisms promote peace and socio-economic development. It is incumbent on the public to report any litany of activities that poses a threat to national security. If we do not solve these problems, the majority is going to be blamed when the situation gets out of control.

(10 MARKS)

SECTION D

Read the following sentences carefully and correct any errors you may find. Do NOT change the original meaning of each sentence.

1. I have no intention to intimidating students in my class.
2. The students agreed with the suggestions of the SRC president.
3. I met the man who you asked to come to my office.
4. Had the students read their notes, they would have been performing well in the examination.
5. An important lesson in life is to learn not cry over spoiled milk.
6. No sooner had the police left the crime scene when the robbers bolted away.
7. Our president seldomly tweets about the plight of his people lately.
8. The myth that men are superior than ~~men~~ women in some parts of the world persists.
9. Unlicensed fishing vessels trolling the waters of the country will be impounded by the state.
10. The minister said students on the gold track will report on the 10th of November.

(10 MARKS)

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST
COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND LEGAL STUDIES
FACULTY OF ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES
Course code: CMS 107; Communicative Skills

MENTOR

Selected Reading Materials for Class Exercises

P1

Three passions, simple but overwhelmingly strong have governed my life: the longing for love, the search for knowledge, and unbearable pity for the suffering of mankind. These passions, like great winds, have blown me hither and thither, in a wayward course, over a deep ocean of anguish, reaching to the verge of despair.

I have sought love, first, because it brings ecstasy- ecstasy so great that I would often have sacrificed all the rest of life for a few hours of its joy. I have sought it, next, because it relieves loneliness- that terrible loneliness in which one's shivering consciousness looks over the rim of the world into the cold unfathomable lifeless abyss. I have sought it, finally, because in the union of love, I have seen, in a mystic miniature, the prefiguring vision of the heaven that saints and poets have imagined. This is what I sought and though it might seem too good for human life, this is what at last, I have found.

With equal passion, I have sought knowledge. I have wished to understand the hearts of men. I have wished to know why the stars shine. A little of this, but not much, I achieved.

Love and knowledge, as far as they were possible, led upwards towards the heavens. But always pity brought me back to earth. Echoes of cries of pain reverberate in my heart. Children in famine, victims tortured by oppressors, helpless old people, a hated burden to their sons, and the whole world of loneliness, poverty and pain make a mockery of what human life should be. I long to alleviate the evil, but I cannot, and I too suffer.

This has been my life. I have found it worth living, and would gladly live it again if the chance were offered me.

Autobiography of Bertrand Russel (1872 – 1914)

A Sample Analysis of a text

- Selected Text: Passions of Life – Autobiography of Bertrand Russel (1872 – 1914)

Title: Passions of Life

According to the writer, three passions have controlled his life. These are the desire for love, the quest for knowledge and pity for mankind. Love makes him excited, helps him overcome loneliness and makes him imagine heaven. In addition to love, the writer has sought knowledge in order to understand man, and nature/ natural things / natural phenomenon. Finally, he has sought pity for mankind. Pity is sought because of such unfortunate situations in life: malnourishment of children, the torture of people, the plight of the aged: solitude, impoverishment and suffering. The desire of the writer is to be reincarnated and to experience these passions but this desire, is unachievable.

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST
COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND LEGAL STUDIES
FACULTY OF ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES

CAUSES, EFFECTS AND SOLUTIONS TO TURTLE'S SHORTAGE

QUIZ 2 DURATION: 40 MINS

INSTRUCTION: Read the following passage carefully and write an OUTLINE of it.

The sea turtles, especially the leatherbacks, are undoubtedly one of nature's most amazing creatures. They roam the warm seas of the world throughout their lives and come ashore only to lay eggs. Malaysia with its long sandy shorelines has been destined as one of their breeding grounds. Unfortunately, the number of leatherback turtles landing on the beaches has been declining over the years. According to the WWF estimates, about 2000 leatherbacks arrived on Malaysian beaches in 1970. In 1989, only between 30 and 60 leatherbacks were found. The drastic drop within such a short span is certainly a great cause for concern. Where have they gone to? Are they avoiding the beaches ofMalaysia? Whatever it is, the message is disturbingly clear—they may become an extinct species soon, that is, if no concerted effort is taken to check the decline now..

The belief that the declining landings of turtles in Malaysia are the result of increasing landings in others parts of the world is a fallacy. This is because the scenario is the same in other countries known to have been visited by the turtles. What has caused the species to dwindle at such rapid rate? There are many reasons but an obvious one is none other than man's greed. As we know, turtles are killed for their meat. In the days before refrigeration, turtles had been a source of fresh food for the sailing ships. Today, turtle soup is a favourite dish among the Asians. Their shells have become coveted items for decorations and jewelry. Their eggs which are meant to be hatched into young turtles are instead harvested and eaten.When deep sea fishing nets inadvertently trap the turtles, fishermen often kill the turtles instead of cutting their nets to release them. Pollution of the sea has also reduced the number of turtles. Many are choked to death by the plastic bagsthat they mistake for jellyfish. It appears that the turtles are no longer safe in the sea where they spend most of lives.

Neither are they safe when the females come ashore to lay eggs. In fact, this is the time when they are particularly vulnerable as their movements are slow on land. The nesting places for these turtles have also been greatly reduced, as more and more beaches are taken over for tourism with the construction of hostels, chalets and condominiums, the breeding grounds are reduced in the process. The intrusion of tourists into these places makes it difficult for the turtles to lay their eggs. They have to look elsewhere to places that are still quiet and undisturbed to lay their eggs. Unfortunately these ideal places are few to come by now. Too much development has taken place even along the coastline in most countries.

Perhaps all is not lost yet. Sincere efforts are being taken to check the decline. In Malaysia, it is heartening to note that concrete steps have been taken to protect the turtles that come ashore to lay eggs. The indiscriminate collection of turtle eggs on the beaches is no more allowed. Turtle sanctuaries have been set up in RantauAbang in Terengganu. The eggs collected by designated officials are sent to hatcheries in the sanctuaries. In this way, the loss of eggs and the rate of mortality among the baby turtles are reduced. In other words, more baby turtles are now able to return to sea and grow into adulthood.

In an effort to discourage the public from eating turtle eggs, a Turtle Enactment Act has been introduced to prohibit the sale of leatherback eggs. The WWF has also launched the "Save the Turtle Campaign" to create an awareness among the public to help save the endangered species. In this way, the consumption of turtle eggs and perhaps turtle meat will be discouraged, thus putting a stop to the illegal sale of eggs and trapping of turtles. Let us hope that it is not too late to save these fascinating creatures from becoming extinct.

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST
COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND LEGAL STUDIES
FACULTY OF ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES

QUIZ 3 DURATION: 40 MINS

Instruction: Correct any concord errors you may find in the passage below. Copy the passage and underline clearly any changes you make.

It has always been proper for every nation to have a long-term plan from which its short and medium-term plans emanates. Even as individuals, we can only lives purposeful lives when we plan, has vision, and even dreams for defined periods. The success of a long-term plan for Ghana will depends on whether we have the basics right for the plan. Abandoning projects which was started by previous governments indicate that basic challenges in implementing such plans, if not addressed, can haunt the achievability and sustainability of any long-term plan. One of the limitations of this write-up are that it cannot belabours and digests all the multi-faceted causes of failures and successes of plans and their antidote. A wide spectrum of issues bordering on land ownership and allocations has become handy basics in considering a long-term planning in Ghana.

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST
COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND LEGAL STUDIES
FACULTY OF ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES
END OF FIRST SEMESTER EXAMINATIONS
2017/2018 ACADEMIC YEAR
CMS107: COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS

DURATION: 2 HOURS DATE: 06/12/17

GENERAL INSTRUCTION: ATTEMPT ALL QUESTIONS.

Please Get All Your Past Questions At Bentil's Shop
At Science Market Call 0545-333-571

SECTION A

Read the following passage carefully, and write an outline or summary of it. The summary should be between 90 and 120 words.

An occupation is an activity which an individual engages in. This activity is meaningful, purposeful and contributes to one's identity. Your life is made up of a variety of occupations. These occupations can include roles like being a parent, friend, spouse, tennis player, cook, or musician. We generally do not think about our daily occupations until we have trouble doing them. One way to avoid running into daily occupational troubles is by using occupational therapy. Occupational therapy (OT) incorporates your valued occupations into the rehabilitation process. It has its unique nature, professionals, beneficiaries and other manifestations.

Occupational therapy is about health and rehabilitation. It is a client-centred health profession concerned with promoting health and well- being through occupation. The primary goal of occupational therapy is to enable people to participate in the activities of everyday life. It is practised in a wide range of public, private and voluntary sector settings such as the person's home environment; schools, workplaces, health centres, rehabilitation centres and hospitals. Occupational therapy practice is focused on enabling individuals to change aspects of the person, occupation, the environment, or some combination of these to enhance occupational participation.

Occupational therapists work with people of all ages who need specialized assistance to live independent productive and satisfying lives; due to physical, developmental, social or mental problems. They have a broad education in medical, social behavioural, psychological, psychosocial and occupational sciences which equips them with the attitudes, skills and knowledge to work collaboratively with people, individually or in groups or communities. Occupational therapists can work with all people, including those who have an impairment of body structure or function owing to a health condition, or who are restricted in their participation or who are socially excluded owing to their membership of social or minority groups. The occupational therapist helps clients to perform all daily activities by improving muscle strength and endurance, balance and co-ordination, motor skills including the environment, and modification of the task if necessary.

People who benefit from the services of an OT include patients who suffer from orthopedic conditions such as amputation, bone replacement and fracture; neurological conditions such as stroke, Parkinson and spinal cord injuries; children with developmental and learning disabilities such as Autism, Cerebral palsy, Down syndrome, Muscular dystrophy and Osteogenesis Imperfecta as psychiatry patients, aged conditions such as arthritis and other degenerative conditions.

Although the hospital or rehab facility is responsible for ensuring all issues relating to one's care after discharges are addressed, OTs provide comprehensive pre-admission and post-discharge home assessment to assist with the discharge planning. OTs also plan return to work programmes to enable clients to get back to the occupation they were engaged in even before the disability or illness. (20 marks)

Please Get All Your Past Questions At Bentil's Shop
At Science Market Call 0545-333-571

SECTION B

Copy and Punctuate the Following Passage.

Last year a group in Ghana marked the first world day of the poor. They had identified the main causes of poverty as:greed, selfishness, corruption, poor use and distribution of natural resources. The group was commended by other institutions for giving hope and dignity to the destitute, the marginalized and the under privileged in society through their charitable activities. Indeed, the group was putting into practice their love for their neighbour, as stated in the Good Book, I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me soothing to drink, I was a stranger and you invited me this was laudable since it did not make sense to put up structures brick and mortar all over the place when people in our community are not able to afford basic needs. In his closing remarks, the chairman said what are we waiting for, the government and other religious organizations should achieve a reduction or eradication of hunger and poverty in Ghana.

(10 marks)

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST
COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND LEGAL STUDIES
FACULTY OF ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES
END OF FIRST SEMESTER EXAMINATION
2015/2016 ACADEMIC YEAR
CMS107: COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS
DURATION: 2 HOURS DATE: 27/11/15

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS: ATTEMPT ALL QUESTIONS

SECTION A

Study carefully the passage below, and either write an OUTLINE of it SUMMARIZE it in 100 words.

The vulture is seen differently from other birds that have the temerity to scavenge for their "livelihood". This is because of its business of rummaging through refuse dumpsites and doing justice to dead "material". Even though most of our folktales present the good side of this bird, the vulture does more for us than the folktales present.

Vultures are magnificent birds that have huge environmental and economic importance. Vultures are specially designed to dispose of animal and human waste and to present the spread of diseases. Nature has equipped vultures with a digestive system that contains special acids that dissolve anthrax, botulism, rabies and cholera bacteria. By consuming the carcasses of diseased animals, vultures prevent the spread of these life threatening diseases.

Vultures face tremendous challenges all over the world for survival. Each year, a day is earmarked as International Vulture Awareness Day to educate and create awareness about the dangers both commission and omission human activities are posing to the very survival of vultures. There are 23 species of vultures the world over. Currently, there is a decline of 42 percent of vulture numbers that have been recorded in the past 30 years with Ruppell's Vultures declining by a whopping 85 percent. The birds face serious threats like hatred, persecution, poisoning, vehicular collision, electrocution, starvation and destruction of their breeding sites.

Opportunities for diseases transmission may increase due to more contacts among scavengers. In order to reduce the rate of extinction of vultures, there should be appropriate legislation and other control measures to prevent the indiscriminate use of poison to kill these vultures. Advocates are also calling for support for captive breeding programmes and other conservative initiates to increase the population of vultures. Captive breeding centres have been set up in Pakistan, India and Nepal to help in the conservation. There is even a vulture restaurant in India where these birds go to be fed and let loose again. The ramifications of the world without vultures will mean that there will be an increase in feral dogs, consequently putting all of us at risk of rabies attacks and possible deaths.

Experts see vultures as "unaccepted environmental heroes" and believe that a world without vultures would be a foul smelling places filled with diseases and rotten carcasses. If we kill all vultures, the transmission of diseases like cholera to humans will rise. We all need to save vultures from becoming extinct in the environment to safeguard biodiversity.

30 marks

SECTION B

Punctuate the following passage.

Mr. Schandorfs attitude to life should be emulated by everybody in 2010 he invested fifty thousand cedis in citrus punch company two years later the company's shares started depreciating. Mr. Schandorf could retrieve only half of the money he had initially put into the company. However, Mr. Thompson who stayed on with the company lost all his investment because the company eventually went totally bankrupt it is worth noting that while in the university, Mr. Schandorf had remarked I believe in the philosophy of acting promptly and striking elsewhere. Mr. Schandorf had also read a book entitled never despair in life which really changed his thinking. The lesson to learn is this; when we lose out on some venture that should not spell doom for us

SECTION C

MENTOR

3. Combine the following sentences into a meaningful single sentence by the process or processes shown in brackets.

For example: Kofi came. Ama also came. (Co-ordination)

Kofi and Ama came.

Both Kofi and Ama came.

a. Esi planned to leave early in the morning. Esi departed in the evening. (Co-ordination)
b. Kwame was six years old. Kwame first learned to play basketball. (Subordination)
c. Peter studied hard during the semester. Peter still found the paper difficult. (Co-ordination)
d. The strange man entered the lecture hall. The lecturer stopped speaking. The students were dumbfounded. (Subordination and Co-ordination)
e. Kwame travelled abroad. He married a black American. He returned to Ghana last year. (Co-ordination and Subordination)

10 marks

SECTION D

4. Re-write the following sentences, correcting any errors you may find without changing the meaning.

a. We agreed to return the dog to it's owner.
b. My uncle said that he has always sent us money.
c. My mother believed I could be able to pass the interview.
d. The men travelled seeking for greener pastures.
e. The lady, who won the beauty contest, received a scholarship.
f. It is about time the university grant scholarships to brilliant students.
g. But for the students' contributions, the research will not have been successful.
h. Due to modern trends in medicine, many surgeons can operate patients fast.
i. Our leader told us all what transpired at the disciplinary committee meeting.
j. You will win a prize if you participated actively.

10 marks

WRITE AN OUTLINE FOR THE PASSAGE

SECTION A

Study carefully the passage below, and then write an OUTLINE on it. Provide a title.

In Ghana, like many developing countries around the world, the erosion of traditional lifestyles and diet is largely leading to the increased incidence of diabetes. A lot of people are moving from traditional foods to more processed, polished and animal-sourced foods that are rich in fats and sugars. The prevalence rate or the percentage of Ghanaians who currently have the disease is about 8 percent.

Diabetes is usually classified into types. The first one usually starts from childhood and is also called insulin-dependent diabetes because the clients need insulin to live. This type of diabetes has come to replace other forms previously referred to as juvenile-onset diabetes, childhood diabetes. The second type is also known as non-insulin dependent diabetes because the client has some level of insulin already in their system but what they need is its proper utilization or augmentation of its production. Previously used terms were 'adult-onset' and 'obesity-related'. Other types of diabetes include gestational diabetes, which occurs during pregnancy; congenial diabetes, which occurs at birth; cystic-fibrosis related, which is linked to the disease; and steroid diabetes, which results from over usage of steroid drugs.

Diabetes comes about when the insulin levels in the body are low or the body cannot effectively utilize insulin. The lack of insulin in Type II could be due to attack by a virus known as coxsackie virus or conditions in which the body tends to attack its own body tissues known as autoimmune disorders. Type II diabetes is mainly caused by genetic factors and lifestyle changes, including the use of steroids and conditions of stress. Excessive production of growth hormone in conditions such as Acromegaly and tumours of the adrenal gland, leading to high cortisol production, all result in high sugar levels in the blood.

Complications in diabetes could be acute; that is, immediate, as a result of persistent high blood sugar levels or longer term, developing after some years from poor blood sugar control. Acute complications include diabetic ketoacidosis, which is a condition in which persistent high sugar levels lead to various chemical changes which can make the patient get into coma or even death. Other complications include damage to the eyes which affect eyesight, damage to the nerves which affects sensation, and kidney damage. The disease also affects large blood vessels, which ultimately lead to stroke, heart attacks and atherosclerosis. Gestational diabetes or diabetes in pregnancy can also lead to unusually large babies known as macrosomia or other birth abnormalities. Erectile dysfunction in men is a common complication of uncontrolled diabetes and limb amputations may be necessary to save a patient's life.

Patient education is a very important cornerstone in the management of diabetes. Patients are educated on when to eat, what to eat and when and how to take their medication. Patients also need to recognize signs of hypoglycaemia or low blood sugar levels which could result from overdose of drugs. These include sweating, irritability, confusion, blurred vision and collapse. Drugs usually include insulin, sulfonylurea and Biguanide. To prevent the disease, a person must maintain healthy weight, avoid unhealthy foods, stop smoking, reduce alcohol intake and exercise at least three times a week.

Diabetes is on the increase world-wide mainly because of unhealthy lifestyles. It is, therefore, very important that we all take the appropriate measures with the required willpower to prevent getting the disease.

(Culled from the Daily Graphic, November, 16, 2011) (20 Marks)

SECTION B

Punctuate the following passage.

When Bortey went into senior high school his Physics master taught him the basic rule that, while unlike poles strange as it may sound automatically attract each other like poles repel how come Bortey said to himself he remembered how his mother who is also his mentor had tried her chronic fatigue, lethargy, chronic nausea, irritability, headaches and blood- shot eyes.

With regard to toxicity, drug sellers and peddlers are considered to be endangering public health and victimizing individuals because they are selling dangerous and toxic chemical without labeling them or putting appropriate warning on them, for example, excessive alcohol depressing respiratory centre in the brain may stop the individual from breathing resulting in death, also, excessive cannabis (wee) smoking may negatively affect one's mind, emotions and behaviour.

Purchasers and abusers have the right to know the effect of the drug on their bodies so as to make an informed choice. Since these drugs are addictive, pushers may be creating a section of individuals who may be endangering their lives by abusing these substances.

20 marks

SECTION B

Rewrite the following passage restoring the appropriate punctuation marks.

Ama soon finished her shorthand and typing course she was over the moon when she landed her first job at lever brothers. However, the downsizing policies of present-day Ghana hit the company and consequently she was laid off. In an exchange with her colleague, Ama remarked, human beings shouldnt give up in the achievement of goals! Ama's friends some holding first university degrees scouted establishments, knocking at closed doors. The situation was desperate, the country was in a recession there were no jobs. Ama's philosophy of life was nil desperadum. Her supreme self confidence told her she was too good to be jobless. She picked one of the handful of alternatives open to her she would set herself up

10 marks

SECTION C

The passage below contains concord errors. Rewrite it correcting any errors you find.

Christmas is an occasion that lends themselves to merrymaking. But traders are experiencing mixed feelings, as the long human and vehicular traffic in the central business districts of the commercial centres does not necessarily translates into sales. Commuters are also worried because at this time of the year, transport challenges rear its ugly heads. Christmas is one period when accident rates goes up because of the rush on the roads. Commercial drivers are eager to take advantage of the increased human activities to maximize his sales, and in so doing they disregard road traffic regulations resulting in accidents. Statistics from the National Road Safety Commission (NRSC) indicates that more and more people are losing their lives to accidents on the road. The reason for this sad development are not far-fetched, as it is on record that about 90 percent of road accidents is caused by human error. The latest figures released by the NRSC shows that 26,621 lives were lost through road accidents from January 2000 to September 2013. This figure, although spanning a 13-year period, are quite frightening, making road accidents one of the major causes of death in the country.

10 marks

SECTION D

Combine the following sentences into one meaningful one by the process or processes indicated in brackets.

1. I could not join the float to town. I did not have the right costume. (Subordination)
2. Your idea sounds impressive to me. Others may not be so enthusiastic. (Coordination)
3. Plants grow best in fresh air outdoors. Many can be grown quite successfully indoors if given good care. (Coordination)
4. John was ready to set out for the university the following day. John washed his clothes. John ironed his clothes. (Coordination and Subordination)
5. The rains came with a vengeance. The roads were flooded and many vehicles were stranded for several hours. (Subordination)

10 marks

SECTION C

Read the passage below carefully. Identify and correct the Subject-Verb agreement errors. DO NOT copy the passage.

Labour saving devices, jet travelsas well as high-speed internet does not help in getting enough sleep. You would think that with everything being done faster, we will have more time to rest and relax. But many around the world sleeps less than the recommended seven to nine hours. In addition, a number of people both young and old experiences sleep problems, with many millions suffering from some type of chronic sleep disorders. There are decreased performance during the day as a result of lack of sleep. Reducing sleep by even one and half hours, even for just one night, result in a drop of daytime alertness by as much as 32 percent. Furthermore, lack of sleep weakens memory and cognitive skills. And who have not experienced the added stress caused by some one's crankiness or irritability from not getting enough sleep? Either workplace accidents or restlessness in workers are twice as likely to happen in cases in which one of the workers did not get sufficient sleep. Statistics, each year, indicates that drowsy driving leads to at least 100, 000 automobile crashes, 71, 000 injuries and1, 550 fatalities just in the United States. Because problems caused by lack of sleep affects those around us as well, it becomes our responsibility to get adequate sleep and rest.

Please Get All Your Past Questions At Bentil's Shop
At Science Market Call 0545-333-571

(10 marks)

SECTION D

Re-write the following sentences, correcting any errors you may find without changing the meaning.

1. I truely would help poor people in my community if only I had the means.
2. As soon as we realized that the bus was approaching to the bus stop, we signalled the driver to stop.
3. Research has proven that alot of reading activities actually improve the functioning of the human brain.
4. No sooner had we started drying the cocoa beans that it started raining cats and dogs.
5. The pronounciation of the word "plurality" by the Member of Parliament caused a heavy uproar at the function.

6. While the guests are lodging here, they would be allowed to access all the facilities available at the guest house.
7. Before you enter into a shrine, you must first remove your footwear.
8. If my father were a millionaire, I will be living in a huge mansion by now.
9. On our way to church this morning, we met the girl who's parents were getting married.
10. Lack of maintainance culture in Africa is what is destroying the beautiful edifices that the continent can boast of.
11. Should in case you come across a black leather purse, kindly take it to the nearest police station.
12. The Johnsons had to vacate from their home when when they were attacked by bees.
13. It is always a previledge when one gets the opportunity to wine and dine with royalty.
14. Maame Awo shared the money equally between all the ten boys who helped her clear her farm.
15. Immediately we finished discussing about the matter, we forwarded the proceedings from the meeting to the manager.
16. The lady was persuaded to agree to their proposal but she stood on her grounds.
17. The lecturer said that he needs a little more time to prepare for the next lecture.
18. The art of relying solely on lecture notes should be discouraged.
19. The concerns of the students should be taken serious by the authorities.
20. The labourer asked his friend to borrow him some money.

(20 marks)

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST
DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES
END OF FIRST SEMESTER EXAMINATION
2014/2015 ACADEMIC YEAR
CMS107: COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS
DURATION: 2 HOURS DATE: 03/11/14

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS: ATTEMPT ALL QUESTIONS

SECTION A

Study carefully the passage below, and then write an OUTLINE of it. Provide a title.

Liquefied Petroleum Gas (LPG) belongs to a family of chemical compounds called hydrocarbons and only consists of hydrogen and carbon atoms. It is produced from the refinery of crude oil into its various petroleum product components such as LPG, petrol, kerosene, diesel and residual fuel oil.

LPG in its normal condition is a gas but it can be pressurized at low temperature into liquid so that it is stored in cylinders and storage vessels. Another property of LPG is that it is lighter than water. The weight of LPG is about half the equivalent of water. When water is poured into an LPG vessel from the top to the bottom gradually, the LPG will gradually come to the surface and subsequently escape from the vessel since it is lighter than water. Again, LPG is heavier than air. LPG roughly weighs twice as much as air. That is high if there is a leakage of LP gas, it can flow on the ground in gutters, depressions and basements and can travel at a considerable distance from the point of leakage. Therefore, when there is an explosion, it can travel far away from the point of leakage. LPG is highly flammable. This property indicates that when it is mixed in the right proportion with air and a source of ignition, it can cause an explosion. Finally, it is odourless, colourless and has no scent. However, an odourant is added to LPG so that in the event of a leakage, one can smell it.

LPG offers benefits for both end-users and the community as a whole. Simplicity of transport, storage and use are combined with its immediate availability and negligible impact on the environment. It is cheaper than charcoal. While a cylinder of 14.5 kg of LPG costs about ₵48.00, a bag of charcoal costs ₵35.00. LPG can be used between eight to ten weeks while one bag of charcoal will not last for more than four weeks. Comparatively, LPG is cheaper to use than charcoal. Again, it is environmentally safe and friendly, particularly in urban areas, thanks to low particle emissions, low nitrogen oxide emissions and low sulphur content.

The only problem with LPG is the danger of its explosion. To prevent this, some measures must be taken. If you smell gas at home, the first thing to do is to open the windows to get rid of the gas. Make sure the knob to the gas cooker and the regulator is turned off. If these two things are turned off and you can still smell the gas, then there are two possible sources of the leakage. The valve is damaged or the rubber hose is loose. If it is safe to do so, try to locate the source of the leakage by applying a solution of soapy water to the base of your cylinder valve or along the flexible hose. If bubbles appear and become bigger or increase in number then you have a leakage. Knowing where the leakage is helps prevent accidents. Take it to an LPG plant for replacement.

LP Gas is very useful and almost indispensable. We must always strive to abide by its rules of use to forestall unpleasant consequences.

SECTION B

Punctuate the following passage.

November 25 is instituted as the international Day for the elimination of violence against Women this day was recognized by the General Assembly of the United Nations in 1999 with a view to raising public awareness of violations of the rights of women why was this step deemed necessary in many cultures, women are viewed and treated as inferior or as second-class citizens prejudices against women are deep-rooted gender-based violence in all its forms is an ongoing problem even in so-called developed world according to former un Secretary-General Kofi Annan violence against women is global in reach and takes place in all societies and cultures it affects women no matter what their race, ethnicity, social origin, birth or other status may be statistics issued by a victimology institution in Holland indicate that 23 percent of women in one South American country, or about 1 in 4 European women suffers domestic violence likewise, the Council of Europe estimates that 1 in 4 European women suffers domestic violence during her lifetime according to the British Home Office in England and Wales in one year, an average of two women each week were killed by curre[illegible] or former partners. The magazine, India Today International reported, for women across India, fear is a constant companion and rape is the stranger they may have to confront at every corner, on any road, in any public place, at any hour. Amnesty International describes violence against women and girls as todays most pervasive human rights challenge.

10 marks

BENTIL

SECTION C

The passage below contains Subject-Verb agreement errors; identify and correct them. You need not copy the passage.

Studies in the world shows that most repeated offenders even after prison will continue to prey upon the community and the costs, not measurable in cedis alone, continues to be astronomical. No matter where you live in the world, everyday, like any day, seems to bring in another crop of lurid crimes. Therefore, it is reasonable to ask: Are present deterrents-stiff penalties, prison terms, and so on-working? Does prison reform criminals? More important, does society addresses the root cause of crime? Concerning present deterrents, Dr. Samuel Mensah, an expert in criminal law and psychology, write: "After a taste of prison, the criminal may become shrewder and more cautious, but he continues his exploitative way of life and commit crimes. Recidivism statistics indicates only whether he has been careless enough to be caught again." In effect, then, prisons in Ghana often becomes finishing schools for criminals, inadvertently helping to hone their antisocial skills. What is more, many crimes that occur in the society goes unpunished, leading felons to conclude that crime does pay. The belief, even though convincing, make them bolder and more set in their ways.

10 marks

BENTIL

SECTION D

Combine each group of the following sentences into a meaningful single sentence by the process or processes in bracket.

1. You can take beer at the party. You can take wine at the party.
   (Coordination)

students think otherwise. (Subordination)

3. The clock struck ten. The door was opened. Our visitors entered. (Coordination)
4. Rai conducted a thorough study. Rai interviewed more than a hundred stakeholders of the company. Rai's findings were rejected by the panel. (Subordination and Coordination)
5. People without vision have no future plans. They are living in a pessimistic world. They have defeated themselves. (Subordination and Coordination)

10 marks

RENTIL SHOP

SECTION E

Re-write the following sentences, correcting any errors you may find without changing the meaning.

1. The lecturer informed the students that he will travel the following week.
2. Kwame wanted to borrow me some money.
3. The government is investigating into the cocaine deal.
4. The teacher constantly emphasized on the need to be attentive in class.
5. But for the students' assistance, the research may not have been conducted.
6. The brilliant student was arrested for a charge of rape.
7. I was elated when I was told that my story has been accepted for publication in the hall magazine.
8. If I had known you were coming, I will have prepared a good meal of banku and tilapia.
9. You have to request for permission if you want to take any photographs of our oil fields.
10. Some citizens find it difficult to differentiate between diarhoea and cholera.

10 marks

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES
CMS 107: COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS

GENERAL QUIZ 1st November, 2014 1 Hour

Instructions: Read the following passage carefully, and then, summarize it in 100 words. Provide a title

The arming of policemen for certain jobs of law enforcement has become a controversial issue. In a country like the United States of America, where the carrying of guns is commonplace, shoot-outs with criminals have become accepted as part of the American culture. But in Great Britain and our own, the public view armed policemen with suspicion and some hostility. Some people feel that only soldiers should carry guns which they can handle efficiently.

Experience has shown that armed policemen in many countries do not appear to have received sufficient training either physically or psychologically. Physically, they seem unable to shoot accurately; they kill suspects, sometimes unarmed ones, instead of simply disabling them by shooting at their arms or legs. Also, they are inclined to let their guns go off when, according to them, they didn't really intend to shoot. Psychologically, they seem unable to realize the extreme seriousness of shooting another human being, especially a suspect who may eventually turn out to be innocent of the offence he is being pursued for. People cite tragic incidents bearing this out, such as the unfortunate case of a by-stander watching a demonstration who was killed by what was meant to be a warning shot, and the student who was shot dead by a trigger-happy constable during a minor argument.

But what of the other side? Is the disarming of the police really the answer? We have to remember that the nature of crime in the country, in fact, in the world, is changing. We must have more efficient ways of dealing with the new generation of violent criminals than the old unarmed police methods. Armed robbery has reached horrific proportions in many countries, and the armed robbers are often so desperate, sometimes under the influence of drugs taken before an "operation", that they will open fire even when they are met with no resistance. Any responsible government must be prepared to give its citizens adequate protection from such criminals by giving the police equal fire power. Also, we must not forget that these instruments of our protection, the police, are flesh and blood, with a life of their own to protect and with family responsibilities. The government owes them too a duty to equip them adequately for their dangerous job, so that a policeman in the course of carrying out his duty will not feel he is being called upon to die prematurely.

1

essence

Read the following passage carefully and write an outline of it

Malaria attacks are normally accompanied by fever, chills, profuse perspiration a occasionally, vomiting. This means, that if malaria attacks, the victim develops a high bo temperature while shivering with cold. The person sweats a lot and sometimes throws up fo The victim may also develop a splitting headache and weak joints. There is also a loss appetite and the eyes turn reddish-yellow.

If malaria is left untreated, it can be fatal* and result in the death of the victim. Untrea malaria can also lead to chronic* malaria. Chronic malaria becomes almost impossible to tr On the other hand, treatment of malaria at the early stages often leads to total recovery.

There are several drugs that are used in the treatment of malaria. Formerly, quinine was only drug available for treatment. Now, however, quinine is no longer in use because o numerous bad side-effects.* So the most frequently prescribed* drugs for the treatmen malaria include chloroquine, fancidar, camoquine and nivaquine. Chloroquine has become of the best or most reliable anti-malaria drugs for use in Ghana. However, because o abuse* and misuse* it has become ineffective on some people. These people have develo a strain of malaria parasite that is chloroquine-resistant. Other people are allergic* to or r negatively to the drug. When they take it they develop severe skin irritation. When happens, an anti-histamine* is given to neutralize the reaction or make it ineffective. Beca of this, it is always best for a doctor to prescribe the type of drug that can fight a partic species of malaria parasite and to determine the dosage for a patient. Dosage depends much on the age, body weight, and tolerance of the patient to the drug.

Administration* of the drug is done in several ways. A patient may be given the drug to swa as a tablet or syrup. This is known as the oral administration of the drug. There is also the of injection where the drug is injected directly into the blood stream of the patient.

Malaria can be prevented in several ways. One of these methods is to take anti-malaria d at regular intervals. This is known as the prophylactic* use of the drug. It is taken not to c but to prevent the disease. Care, however, must be taken in this prophylactic* use of malaria drugs as lapses interrupt their protective effect.

If while the drug is administered prophylactically, an attack of malaria still occurs, the pa must tell the doctor the type of prophylactic that has been taken in order to facilitate* diagn and treatment by the doctor.

Another method of preventing malaria is to make sure that pools, ponds, wells, drai systems and empty cans do not provide hatcheries for the mosquitoes to lay their e Standing water* in these places will provide a good environment for the eggs to hatch in. also advisable to keep mosquitoes out of our rooms by using insect sprays, and by coverir windows with insect-proof nets. There are also several mosquito repellents* that can rubbed or sprayed on the body to keep mosquitoes away.

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES

CMS 107. COMMUNICATION SKILLS

GROUP 11 QUIZ

Identify and explain all concord errors in the passage below.

GIVING HOPE TO UNIVERSITY GRADUATES

Tertiary education in Ghana have witnessed phenomenal growth over the last decade or so. In all, there must be more than 80 public and private universities in the country, in addition to other tertiary educational facilities such as colleges of education, nursing training colleges and polytechnics. The country can boast of the quantitative development of their labor force. What we cannot be sure of its quality graduates turned out by our tertiary educational institutions. It is difficult to say that Ghana has made a clear U-turn away from theory- based education as well as practical based education to one that focus on a hands-on approach to human capital development. Today, many people in Ghana and worldwide has benefited from university and other tertiary –level education.

Regrettably, instead of celebrating this enormous strides on the educational front, we are confronted with a growing army of unemployed graduates who cannot find space in the shrinking labor market. There appears to be a paradox, tough -while we all acknowledge that there are a certain level of growth in the economy, the job is not expanding to offer jobs to young graduates. With regard to this issue, the Ghana Institute of Journalism (GIJ) in collaboration with the African University College of Communication (AUCC) present a graduate seminar. The good news, however are that University of Cape is one of those universities that gives comprehensive tuition and its graduates will not add to the membership of unemployed graduates. It is against this backdrop that neither the Daily Graphic nor the graduates shares in the sentiment of the Deputy Minister of Education in charge of Tertiary Educational, that the government would take steps to ensure that the programs of study in the universities meet the country's developmental needs. He continues to say that The Lost Cities describe the discoveries of many ancient educational system and it is a must read book for every young graduate.

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES

COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS QUIZ 3

In this paragraph, look for two fragments, two comma splices, one run- on, three verb errors, two missing words, and three misspelled or misused words.

1. My grandfather influenced me more than any other person in my life. In the first place, he was the role model for my life. My father die when I was four before I could really get to know him, but my grandfather stepped write into the role of father. ~~Teaching~~ me Italian, piano, and soccer, in fact, he influenced me musically that I work as a musician today, ~~giving~~ piano lessons and performing with musicians who come into town. In the second place, Grandpa taught me what it means to be a gentleman, he had fine manners, always listning politely to others and asking them questions about themselves. Also, he held doors open ladies, gave up his seat on the bus for pregnant women, and helping elderly neighbours in his apartment building carry groceries upstairs, even when he was quiet old himself. To grandfather, dressing well was also a form of good manners. He never went to any public place, even the grocery store, without wearing a suit and fedora hat. Because of him, I always tries to be polite to others and to dress my best. Whenever I am performing or going to any important place. Finally, Grandpa taught me the value of humour. He was a quiet and dignified, but if he thought that a person was acting prejudiced or "like a big shot," he would wink at me and say to the person, "You'll have to excuse me, but I'm hard of hearing." Of course, his hearing was perfect. Although he passed away last year at ninety-two, I will always love and treasure him, and I hope that I am as good a role model to my children as he was to me.

Communicative Skills – Outlining/Summary

Group 12

Passage 1

Armed robbery, one of the social evils in many developing countries, was relatively uncommon in the pre-independence era. Of course, people have been murdered for their money and belongings in the past but never has robbery with violence been experienced on such a wide scale as happens frequently these days.

Prominent among the causes is the ubiquitous influence of crime stories and movies. Conscious of the fact that the youth care for excitement, script writers and film producers concentrate on such blood-curdling incidents as bank robbery, murder and arson. They think mainly of the financial benefits of their enterprises, regardless of their harmful effects on the morals and the behaviour of their impressionable customers. Often these movies depict the use of sophisticated equipment and devices. The idle youth, naturally fascinated by what are shown, try to use them in real life situations.

It is rather unfortunate that, in almost all modern societies, there are always groups of unemployable young people. They are unemployable because they have little or no education and lack skills. What is even worse, these young people are often unprepared for and unwilling to do any manual work to earn an honest living. They tend to blame society for their plight and retaliate by indulging in acts of crime and lawlessness. They grab money and valuable movable property of the lucky rich to enable them survive in a society which seems to ignore them.

The rich, on the other hand, who are mostly the target of armed robbers, provide another cause. Some flaunt their wealth, living ostentatiously, going about in flashy cars and hopping from one hotel to another in the company of teenagers on whom they lavish their wealth and leisure, to the anger and envy of the unemployed youth.

Matters are compounded by the drug addiction among the youth. Their indulgence in drugs tends to deaden their consciences and make them prone to committing any kind of crime. Robbery has its peculiar attraction for them: successfully executed, it provides funds for continuing indulgence in drugs. So a vicious cycle is set in motion. Under the influence of drugs, they rob with violence and impunity.

The break-down of traditional systems, resulting in loss of moral and spiritual values, has made wealth the only thing of value in the eyes of the youth. Many young people, therefore, try all means including armed robbery, to make money in order to enjoy the pleasures and comforts of modern life.

QUESTIONS ON AMBIGUITY

The following sentences have problem of dangling modifiers and ambiguity. Rewrite them correctly without changing their meanings.

2006

1. Studying in the library, the loudspeaker announced the score of the World Series.
2. Speaking broadly, the University of Cape Coast is making a lot of contributions of the development of the country.
3. Adwoa went fishing with a neighbor she liked in the nearby lake.
4. Having passed my examination, my parents praised me.

2007

1. Rushing into the room to escape the tropical storm, my mother's treasured vase hand and broke into pieces.
2. All things considered, this semester was very eventful.
3. Having studied hard, the end-of-semester examination should be fairly easy for students.

2010

1. The instructor told me to slow down in an angry mood.
2. My father couldn't hear the explosion in the shower.
3. Burning in my new oven, I removed the tasteless chicken.
4. The Ghanaian driver photographed the colourful fish breathing through his scuba gear.
5. We tripped on a pile of yams dashing around the barn.
6. The people on the bus stared at the roof with tired faces.
7. My uncle is going to the court.

8. The lecturer did not attend the function because his car broke down.
9. Encouraged by previous performance, working even harder seemed to make a lot of sense.
10. Flying aeroplanes can be dangerous.

2011

1. Although only a small girl, my mother expected me to do a lot of work
2. John assigned Peter to do the work because he knows what must be done.
3. We could see the presidential palace sailing across the river.
4. Being childless for so long, the baby was a welcome addition.
5. Having taught his congregation about the need for salvation, the crimes surprised the new pastor.
6. In a sentimental frame of mind, the song brought tears to Esi's eyes.
7. The tenants left the town in a rickety car owing two months' rent.
8. Afraid to look his father in the eyes, Paul's head was buried in shame.
9. Going through the lecture notes, the student's eyes grew dim.
10. To perform well in the communicative skills course, the lecturer advised the students to study hard.

2012

1. I sat with my dog on the front steps reading my newspapers.
2. Changing the oil along the way, the car seemed to run better.
3. Sick and weak, the story was narrated by the old man.

4. Students who seek their lecturer's advice often can improve their grades.
5. To become rich, the business must be taken seriously.
6. Kwame finally decided on the boat.
7. Wading through the river, a baby crocodile brushed past my leg.
8. The minister's appointment was shocking.
9. We saw the mountains of uncollected trash walking along the street
10. Terry told Martin that he would terribly lose the election.

ESSAY QUESTIONS

Write a five paragraph essay (of about 500 words) on any one of the following topics:

2006

a. The challenges of the Communicative Skill programme in the University of Cape Coast.
b. How to achieve maximum security on the University of Cape Coast.
c. The implications of the National Health Insurance Scheme.

2007

1. The effects of the energy crisis on Ghana's economy.
2. Argue for or against the view that student demonstrations should be banned.
3. How do you make ethnic co – existence more positive in Ghana?

4. My experience of the matriculation ceremony.

2010

1. The role of the media in Ghana's democracy.
2. Three exciting experience I have had during my hall week celebration in the University of cape Coast.

2011

1. Ways of improving sanitation in Ghana.
2. Three major highlights of a matriculation ceremony I witnessed in the University of Cape Coast.

2012

1. How to minimize conflict in elections in Ghana.
2. My experience as a first year student of the University of Cape Coast

TRIAL QUESTIONS

Write a five paragraph essay (of about 500 words) on any one of the following topics:

1. A graduation ceremony you have witnessed in the University of Cape Coast.
2. Effects of strike actions on Ghana's Economy.
3. Effects of post - election violence in Ghana
4. Causes of fire outbreak in Ghana.

5. The importance of democracy in Ghana.
6. Effects of political instability in Ghana.
7. An educational trip you embarked to three interesting places in Cape Coast.

GENERAL PAST QUESTIONS

The following sentences have problems of dangling modifiers and ambiguity. Rewrite them correctly without changing their meanings.

1. Darius saw an automobile walking down the street.
2. A horse was purchased by a handsome man weighing about 1300 pounds.
3. They hardly noticed the broken glass enjoying an exciting game of hide/and/seek.
4. A fountain pen was lost by the boy filled with red ink.
5. Frozen shrimp lay in the steel pans that were melting rapidly.
6. We saw an automobile accident sitting in our front window.
7. Komrade tossed bait to the fish standing on the river bank.
8. The speaker discussed the problem of crowded prisons at the college.
9. I saw a falling star sitting on the front porch the order night.
10. She missed the ferry boat dropping the wrong coin into the turnstile.
11. The patient talked about his childhood on the psychiatrist's couch.
12. Cinderella is a poor girl dreaming of marrying a rich handsome man dressed in rags.

13. The crowd watched the tennis players with swiveling heads.
14. I found the fish strolling along the edge of the book.
15. We noticed the planes standing in the cafeteria.
16. Florence put four hamburger patties on the counter which she was cooking for dinner.
17. The bees stung the keeper swarming into the hive.
18. We tripped on a pile of hay dashing around the barn.
19. Mary ripped the shirt on a car door that she made in sewing class.
20. He found a robin's egg mowing the lawn.
21. We saw a boy with a hammer driving to the stadium.
22. The latest Ghanaian movie has almost opened in 1200 theatres across the country.
23. The stagehands applauded the show hidden in the wings of the theatre.
24. Pricaline's mother is sick so she didn't go to school.
25. Lincoln's famous word was read by the tourist inscribed on the pedestal of his monument.
26. The wash of the line was hung there by the lady dripping wet.
27. The tomb of an Egyptian pharaoh coming into the museum may be seen on the main floor.
28. I saw a circus passing through my front window.
29. God only can make trees.
30. The dealer nearly made £2m on the sale of the car.
31. He put his lunch on the shelf which he ate later.

32. I nearly napped for twenty minutes during the Communicative Skills lecture.
33. I saw a man shoveling sand through my window.
34. We rented a cottage for a family of four with a fireplace.
35. He was as happy as a lark laughing and joking.
36. Wadsworth wrote that rainbows are the flowers that have died and gone to heaven in a poem.
37. There is a place where you can watch the boats sailing on the back porch.
38. I ordered a suitcase in a department store that is made up of canvas.
39. We decided to send our daughter to college on the day she was born.
40. My uncle saw a kangaroo at the window under the influence of whisky.
41. Put the broom in the corner with a broken handle.
42. The photographer pointed the camera at the shy deer equipped with a special night vision.
43. This plant is of great medicinal value with a peculiar odour.
44. Iniesta found a television set in a second hand store that had been stolen from me last night.
45. The people on the bus stared at the ceiling or read newspapers with tired face.
46. Mr. Johnson advertised for boys to deliver groceries that have bicycles.

47. Take the dog to an animal hospital with a broken leg.
48. The newscaster spoke softly into a microphone wearing bulletproof vest.
49. The goggle-eyed fish amused the boy in the glass bowl.
50. Standing at the ocean's edge, the wind coated my glass with a salty film.
51. The man climbed the ladder with a broken leg.
52. The meat came in a can which we immediately cooked for lunch.
53. The fruit had been carefully wrapped in paper which we ate.
54. I discovered an unusual plant in the garden that oozed like a milky juice.
55. Take one of these powders on going to bed in a little hot water.
56. It is said that Obama wrote his most famous speech when he was driving to Gettysburg on a scarp of brown paper.
57. The toaster was sold to us by a charming salesman with a money back guarantee.
58. Christian only know that God created heaven and earth.
59. A baby grand piano was requested by a woman with three legs.
60. Ruth smiled at grandma when she was put in charge of the fashion show.
61. Prempeh Paused as the girl stopped at a shop window he had been following.
62. When Tracy was Nana Aba she was wearing a black cauldron.

63. Desserts are very tempting when dieting.
64. Cindy dropped out of school after failing ten courses on Friday.
65. The student wrote a good luck charm under his shirt which resembled a tiny elephant.
66. Roger visited the old house still weak with the flu.
67. Twumasi always opens the letters that arrive in the mailbox with a sigh.
68. Nyamekye found it difficult to mount the horse wearing tight jeans.
69. Richard noticed a crack in the window walking into the room.
70. Charles ordered a new telephone from the mail – order catalogue shaped like a cartoon character.
71. A well-worn track shoe was found in the locker bench with holes in it.
72. We saw mountains of uncollected trash walking along the city streets.
73. I sat with my dog on the front steps reading the newspaper.
74. Mary decided to live with her grandparents when she attended college to save money.
75. Woyome nearly earned a billion cedi last month.
76. The phone almost rang fifteen times last night.
77. James bought an old car from a fraudster with a faulty transmission.
78. Francis yelled at the howling dog in his underwear.
79. I almost caught a hundred lightning bugs.

80. James couldn't drives to work in his small sports car with a broken leg.
81. We could see the football stadium driving across the bridge.
82. The suburbs nearly had five inches of rain.
83. I almost had a dozen job interviews after I sent my CV.
84. The apprentice watched the carpenter expertly fix the door with envious eyes.
85. John and Mary decided to have two children on their wedding day.
86. To pass any examination, through preparation ought to be done.
87. The tenants left town in a dilapidated old car owing two-month rent.
88. Although only a small girl, my mother expected me to do a lot of work.
89. He showed the paintings to the customer with large patterns.
90. As the headmaster, the proprietor would like to ask you something about the school.
91. He nearly brushed his teeth for twenty minutes last night.
92. The priest spoke passionately to the old man and woman.
93. Writing desk for sale by a lady with Queen Anne legs.
94. Darius loves Jackie more than McBrown.
95. We found Raymond an experienced tutor.
96. Using elaborate charts and plans the student understood the lecturer.

97. On Jan.7th, John Mahama swore that he was going to provide free education three times.
98. To work with a pianist, constant practice is of great importance.
99. S.K. Gyamfi is going to the bank.
100. The dean didn't deliver his speech because he had traveled abroad.

2012 GENERAL QUIZ

1. James couldn't drive to work in his small car with a broken leg.
2. Mercy took the money from the box and threw it away.
3. Studying each night, the candidate's success was guaranteed.
4. As a young girl of fifteen years, the University accepted Araba to read law.
5. The old man instructed his children to look for a good pen for him.
6. The head teacher did not attend the function because he was ill.
7. The campus guard is trying to stop passing through the University at night.
8. Published in the dailies, the young man believed the stories.

9. Putting two and two together, Ghana is fast developing in Africa.
10. Our mother loves Ama more than Abena.
11. They wanted to know were the game was.
12. Not having had much sleep, my concentration during class was weak.
13. The Keep-Fit club members saw a ghost trotting to the castle at dawn.
14. The plane broke down two weeks ago.
15. She put her lunch on the shelf which she ate later.
16. Munching leaves from a tall tree, the children were fascinated by the giraffe.
17. To win an election, votes are needed.
18. The payment of coach gladdened the hearts of many Ghanaians.
19. All things considered, their performance in the Nation's Cup was quite encouraging.
20. Feeling hot that afternoon, sweaters were removed.

TRIAL QUESTIONS

1. Mr. David Adukpo confirmed that the ladies and gentlemen in KNH are decent.
2. Pramang likes Dumelo more than Majid.
3. Mohammed couldn't go to the library with a slight pneumonia.
4. We found Basketmouth an interesting comedian.
5. On April 1st, Papa Ray swore that he was going to serve GEC several times.

6. To attain a degree from UCC, diligence and perseverance are sine qua non.
7. The leaders of the opposition party said they were going to the court.
8. Winston didn't go to church because he had won lottery.
9. Enjoying the Street Carnival, the artiste was lifted shoulder – high.
10. Darius only seized the mobile phone that rang in the library.
11. Phones that produce loud sound pose threat to the ear.
12. Iniesta almost won all the thirty trophies for KNH.
13. We did not come to UCC because we were daft.
14. When Qobbie met Diawuo he told him that the 15th hall week would be mega.
15. The hall master was quoted as saying that the durbar was about the end of Osagyefo square.
16. The political pundits will soon seek votes from the hallers and diasporeans of his university.
17. The 2012/2013 executives of KNH have plans to purchase a plant.
18. The appointment of the hall master amazed all the hallers.

ANSWER TO QUESTIONS ON AMBIGUITY

2006

1. The loudspeaker announced the score of the World Series while I was in the library. While I was studying in the library, the loudspeaker announced the score of the World Series.

2. Speaking broadly, one will notice that the University of Cape Coast is making a lot of contribution to the development of the country.
3. Adwoa went fishing in the nearby lake with a neighbor she liked.
4. Having passed my examination, I was praised by my parents.

2007

1. My mother's treasured vase fell from my hand and broke into pieces while I was rushing into the room to escape the tropical storm. While I was rushing into the room to escape the tropical storm, my mother's treasured vase fell from my hand and broke into pieces.
2. All things considered, this semester was very eventful.
3. The lecturer said that the end-of-semester examination should be fairly easy for student since they have studied hard.

2010

1. In an angry mood, the instructor told me to slow down.
2. My father couldn't hear the explosion while he was in the shower.
3. I removed the tasteless chicken that was burning in my new oven.
4. Breathing through his scuba gear, the Ghanaian driver photographed the colourful fish.
5. Dashing around the barn, we tripped on a pile of yams.
6. With tired faces, the people on the bus stared at the roof.

7. My uncle is going to the law court.
   My uncle is going to the basketball court/tennis ball court.
8. Because the lecturer's car broke down, he did not attend the function.
9. Encouraged by previous performance, the students noticed that working even harder to make a lot of sense.
10. For the blind man to fly an aeroplane can be dangerous.

2011

1. My mother expected me to do a lot of work although I was only a small girl.
2. John assigned Peter to do the work because Peter knows what must be done.
   John assigned Peter to do the work because John knows what must be done.
3. Sailing across the river, we could see the presidential palace.
4. Being childless for so long, the couple found that the baby was a welcome addition.
5. Having taught his congregation about the need for salvation, the new pastor was surprised at the crimes.
6. The song brought tears to Esi's eyes while in a sentimental frame of mind.
7. Owing two months' rent, the tenants left the town in a rickety car.
8. Afraid to look his father in the eyes, Paul buried his head in shame.

9. The student's eyes grew dim while he was going through the lecture notes.
10. For the students to perform well in the Communicative Skills course, the lecturer advised them to study hard.

2012

1. Reading my newspapers, I sat with my dog on the front steps.
2. Changing the oil along the way, the driver realized that the car seemed to run better.
3. Sick and weak, the old man narrated the story.
4. Often, students who seek their lecturers' advice can improve their grades.
5. For you to become rich, you must take the business seriously.
6. Kwame finally decided to buy the boat.

NB: The construction (6) at the question section could also mean that Kwame made a decision while he was on the boat.

7. A baby crocodile brushed past my leg while I was wadding through the river.
8. The appointment made by the minister was shocking.

NB: The construction (8) at the question section could also mean that the minister was appointed and this appointment was shocking.

9. We saw the mountains of uncollected trash while we were walking along the street.

While we were walking along the street, we saw the mountains of uncollected trash.

10. Terry told Martin that Martin would terribly lose the election.

NB: The pronoun "he" is the cause d of the ambiguity. We do not know whether it is referring to Martin or Terry

ANSWERS TO GENERAL QUESTIONS ON AMBIGUITY

1. Walking down the street, Darius saw an automobile
Darius saw an automobile while he was walking down the street.
2. A horse weighing about 1300 pounds was purchased by a handsome man.
A handsome man purchased a horse which was weighing about 1300 pounds.
3. Enjoying an exciting game of hide-and-seek, they hardly noticed the broken glass.
They hardly noticed the broken glass while they were enjoying an exciting game of hide-and-seek.
4. A fountain pen filled with red ink was lost by the boy.
The boy lost a fountain pen filled with red ink.
5. Frozen shrimps that were melting rapidly lay in the steel pans.
6. Sitting in our front window, we saw an automobile accident.
We saw an automobile accident while we were sitting in our front window.
7. Standing on the river bank, tossed bait to the fish.
Tossed bait to the fish while he was standing on the river bank.

8. At the college, the speaker discussed the problem of crowded prisons.
   The speaker discussed the problem of crowded prisons that were at the college.
9. Sitting on the front porch the other night, I saw a falling star.
   I saw a falling star while I was sitting on the front porch the other night.
10. Dropping the wrong coin the turnstile, she missed the ferry boat.
   She missed the ferry boat when she dropped the wrong coin into the turnstile.
11. On the psychiatrist's couch, the patient talked about his childhood.
   The patient on the psychiatrist's couch talked about hid childhood.
12. Cinderella, dressed in rags is the poor girl dreaming of marrying a rich handsome man.
13. With swiveling heads, the crowd watched the tennis players.
   The crowd with swiveling heads watched the tennis players.
14. Strolling along the edge of the brook, I found the fish.
   I found the fish while I was strolling along the edge of the brook.
15. Standing in the cafeteria, we noticed the aeroplane.
   We noticed the aeroplane while we were standing in the cafeteria

NB: "Plane" could be "Carpenter Plane".

16. Florence put four hamburger patties which she was cooking for dinner on the counter.
17. Swarming into the hive, the bees stung the keeper.
The bees swarming into the hive stung the keeper.
18. Dashing around the barn, we tripped on the pile of hay.
We tripped on a pile of hay while we were dashing around the barn.
19. Mary tripped the shirt which she made in sewing class on a car door.
20. Mowing the lawn, he found a robin's egg.
He found a robin's egg while he was mowing the lawn.
21. Driving to the stadium, we saw a boy with a hammer.
We saw a boy with a hammer while we were driving to the stadium.
22. The latest Ghanaian movie has opened in almost 1200 theatres across the country.

NB: The construction (22) at the question section could also mean that the latest Ghanaian movie has not been opened but it is yet to be opened in about 1200 theatres across the country.

23. Hidden in the wings of the theatre, the stagehand applauded the show.
The stagehand hidden in the wings of the theatre applauded the show.
24. Prinscaline's mother is sick so Prinacaline didn't go to school.

MENTOR COPY

Prinscaline's mother is sick so Prinacaline's mother didn't go to school.

25. Lincoln's famous words inscribed on the pedestal of his monument were read by the tourists.
The tourists read Lincoln's famous word inscribed on the pedestal of his monument.

26. The wash dripping wet on the line was hung there by a lady.
A lady hung the wash dripping wet on the line.

27. Coming into the museum, one may see the tomb of an Egyptian pharaoh on the main floor.
Anyone coming into the museum may see the tomb of an Egyptian pharaoh on the main floor.

28. Passing through my front window, I saw a circus.
I saw a circus while I was passing through my front window.

29. Only God can make trees.

The construction (29) at the question section could also mean that there is only one thing that God can make. i.e to make trees. In this case the construction will be:

God can make only trees.

30. The dealer made nearly £2m on the sale of the car.

31. He put his lunch which he ate later on the shelf.

32. I napped for nearly twenty minutes during the Communicative Skills lecture.

The construction (29) at the question section could also mean that the act of napping did not take place although it was about to take place for twenty times.

33. Through my window, I saw a man shoveling for twenty times.

34. We rented a cottage with a fireplace for a family of four.

35. Laughing and joking, he was as happy as a lark.

36. Wadsworth wrote in a poem that rainbows are the flowers that have died and gone to heaven.

37. There is a place on the back porch were you can watch the boat sailing.

On the back porch, there is a place where you can watch the boat sailing.

38. I ordered a suitcase that was made of canvas in a department store.

39. On the day our daughter was born, we decided that we would send her to college. (i.e. our daughter would be taken to college in future).

NB: The construction (39) at the question section could also mean that the action of taking our daughter to college was to take place on the very day she was born.

40. Under the influence of whisky, my uncle saw a kangaroo at the window.

41. Put the broom with a broken handle in the corner.

42. Equipped with a special night vision, the photographer pointed the camera at the shy deer.
The photographer equipped with a special night vision pointed the camera at the shy deer.

43. This plant with a peculiar odour is of great medicinal value.

44. Iniesta found a television set that had been stolen from me last night in a second hand store.

45. With tired faces, the people on the bus stared at the ceiling or read newspapers.

46. Mr. Johnson advertised for boys that have bicycles tp deliver groceries.

47. Take the dog with a broken leg to an animal hospital.

48. Wearing a bulletproof vest, the newscaster spoke softly into a microphone.
The newscaster wearing a bulletproof vest spoke softly into a microphone.

49. The goggle-eyed fish in the glass bowl amused the boy.

50. The wind coated my glass with a salty film while I was standing at the ocean's edge.

51. The man with a broken arm climbed the ladder

52. The meat which we immediately cooked for lunch came in a can.

53. The fruit which we ate had been carefully wrapped in paper.

54. I discovered an unusual plant that oozed like a milky juice in the garden.

42. Equipped with a special night vision, the photographer pointed the camera at the shy deer.
The photographer equipped with a special night vision pointed the camera at the shy deer.

43. This plant with a peculiar odour is of great medicinal value.

44. Iniesta found a television set that had been stolen from me last night in a second hand store.

45. With tired faces, the people on the bus stared at the ceiling or read newspapers.

46. Mr. Johnson advertised for boys that have bicycles tp deliver groceries.

47. Take the dog with a broken leg to an animal hospital.

48. Wearing a bulletproof vest, the newscaster spoke softly into a microphone.
The newscaster wearing a bulletproof vest spoke softly into a microphone.

49. The goggle-eyed fish in the glass bowl amused the boy.

50. The wind coated my glass with a salty film while I was standing at the ocean's edge.

51. The man with a broken arm climbed the ladder.

52. The meat which we immediately cooked for lunch came in a can.

53. The fruit which we ate had been carefully wrapped in paper.

54. I discovered an unusual plant that oozed like a milky juice in the garden.

55. Take one of these powders in a little hot water on going to bed.

On going to bed, take one of these powders in a little hot water.

56. It is said that Obama wrote his most famous speech on a scarp of brown paper when he was driving to Gettyburg.

57. With a money-back guarantee, the toaster was sold to us by a charming salesman.

58. Only Christians know that God created heaven and earth.

NB: The construction (58) at the question section could also mean that Christians know only one thing that God created heaven and earth.

59. A baby grand piano with three legs was requested by a woman.

60. Ruth smiled at grandma when Ruth was put in charge of the fashion show.

Ruth smiled at grandma when grandma was put in charge of the fashion show.

61. Prempeh paused as the girl he had been following stopped at a shop window.

62. When Tracy saw Nana Aba, Tracy was wearing a black cauldron, when Tracy saw Nana Aba, Nana Aba was wearing a black cauldron.

63. Deserts are very tempting when one is dieting. The patient noticed/ realized/observed that desserts were very tempting when he was dieting.

64. Cindy dropped out of school on Friday after failing ten courses. i.e. Cindy dropped out of school on Friday.

65. The student wrote a good luck charm which resembled a tiny elephant under his shirt.

66. Still weak with the flu, Roger visited the old house.

67. With a sigh, Twumasi always opens the letters that arrive in the mailbox.

68. Wearing tight jeans, Nyamekye found it difficult to mount the horse.

69. Walking into the room, Richard noticed a crack in the window.

70. Charles ordered a new telephone shaped like a cartoon character from the mail-order catalogue.

71. A well – worn track shoe with holes in it was found in the locker bench.

72. Walking along the city streets, we saw mountains of uncollected trash.

73. I sat on the front steps with my dog while I was reading the newspaper.
Reading the newspaper, I sat on the front steps with my dog.

74. To save money, Mary decided to live with her grandparents when she attended college.
NB: the construction (74) at the questions section could also mean that the purpose for which Mary attended the college was to go and save money.

75. Woyome earned nearly a billion cedi last month.

76. The phone rang almost fifteen times last night.

77. James bought an old car with a faulty transmission from a fraudster.

78. In his underwear, Francis yelled at the howling dog.

79. I caught almost a hundred lighting bugs.

80. With a broken leg, James couldn't drive to work in his small sport car.

81. We could see the football stadium while we were driving across the bridge.

Driving across the bridge, we could see the football stadium.

82. The suburbs had nearly five inches of rain.

83. I had almost a dozen job interviews after I sent my CV.

84. With envious eyes, the apprentice watched the carpenter expertly fix the door.

The apprentice with envious eyes watched the carpenter expertly fix the door.

85. On their wedding day, John and Mary decided to have two children. (i.e. The decision to give birth to two children was taken on their wedding day but the children will be born in the future)

NB: the construction (85) at the questions section could also mean that the couple had the intention to give birth to two children on that same day of their wedding.

86. For you to pass any examination, you ought to do thorough preparation.

For a student to pass any examination, he/she ought to prepare thoroughly.

87. In a dilapidated old car, the tenants owing two-month rent left town.

The tenants owing two-month rent left town in a dilapidated old car.

88. My mother expected me to do a lot of work although I was only a small girl.

Although only a small girl, I was expected to do a lot of work.

89. He showed the paintings with large patterns to the customer.

He showed the customer the paintings with large patterns.

90. The proprietor would like to ask you as the headmaster something about the school.

91. He brushed his teeth for nearly twenty minutes last night.

92. The priest spoke passionately to the old man and the woman.

The priest spoke passionately to the old man and the old woman.

NB: "The old man and woman" means that the old man is at the same time a woman.

"The old man and old woman" means that the old man is at the same time an old woman. Don't forget to insert a determiner in this instance.

e.g. "The boy and girls are playing on the pitch" should be "the boys and girls are playing on the pitch".

93. Writing desks with Queen Anne legs for sale by a lady.

94. Darius loves Jackie more than he loves McBrown.

Darius loves Jackie more than McBrown loves Jackie/Darius loves Jackie more than McBrown does.

95. We found an experienced tutor for Raymond.

We found that Raymond was an experienced tutor.

96. The students understood the lecturer as he used elaborate charts and plans.

The lecturer using elaborate charts and plans was understood by the students.

97. On January 7th, John Mahama swore three times that he was going to provide free education.

NB: the construction (97) at the questions section could also mean that John Mahama's pledge was that he would provide free education three times.

98. For Benedict to work with a pianist, he would know that constant practice is of great importance.

99. S.K. Gyamfi is going to the commercial bank.

S.K. Gyamfi is going to the commercial bank.

100. Because the Dean had travelled abroad, he didn't deliver his speech.

NB: the construction (97) at the questions section could also mean that the Dean deliver the speech but his action (i.e. delivering the speech) wasn't because he had ever travelled abroad.

is

ANSWERS TO 2012 GENERAL QUIZ

1. With a broken leg, James couldn't drive to work in his small car.
2. Mercy took the money from the box and threw the box/money away.

Mercy threw the money which she took from the box away.

TEAM ARISE FOR LOCAL NUGS
PRESIDENT 2016/17

3. Studying each night, the candidates knew that her success was guaranteed.
The candidate's success was guaranteed since she studied each night.
4. As a young girl of fifteen years, Araba was accepted by the University to read law.
The University accepted Araba, a young girl of fifteen years, to read law.

5. The old man instructed his children to look for a good writing pen for him./The old man instructed his children too look for a good writing pen for him to write his letter. (i.e. a pen for writing).
The old man instructed his children to look for a good pen for him to rear his sheep. (i.e. a pen for keeping domestic animals).
6. Because the head teacher was ill, he did not attend the function.
The construction (6) at the questions section could also mean that the head teacher attended the function but he/she didn't do that because of his/her sickness.
7. The campus guard is trying to stop people from passing through the university at night.
8. The young man believed the stories published in the dailies.
9. The sentence is not ambiguous.
10. Our mother loves Ama more than she loves Abena.

Our mother loves Ama ,ore than Abena loves Ama./Our mother loves Ama more that Abean does.

11. They wanted to know where the game was being played.

NB: "game" in question (11) is ambiguous. It could also be bush animals hunted foe food or sport.

12. Not having had much sleep, I realized that my concentration during class was weak.

My concentration during class was weak because I did not have much sleep.

13. Trotting to the castle at dawn, the Keep-Fit Club members saw a ghost.

The Keep-Fit Club members trotting to the castle at dawn saw a ghost.

14. The aeroplane broke down two weeks ago.

The carpenter's plane broke down two weeks ago.

15. She put her lunch which she ate later on the shelf.

16. The children were fascinated by the giraffe which was munching leaves from a tall tree.

17. For a candidate to win an election, he/she needs votes.

18. The payment made to the coach gladdened the hearts of many Ghanaians.

The payment made by coach gladdened the heart of many Ghanaians.

19. The sentence is not ambiguous.

20. Feeling hot that afternoon, the players removed their sweaters.

ANSWERS TO TRIAL QUESTIONS

1. Mr. David Adukpo confirmed that the ladies and the gentlemen in KNH are decent.
2. Pramang likes Dumelo more than she likes Majid.
   Pramang likes Dumelo more than Majid likes Dumelo./Pramang likes Dumelo more than majid does.
3. With a slight pneumonia, Mohammed couldn't go to the library.
4. We found that Basketmouth was an interesting comedian.
   We found an interesting comedian for Basketmouth.
5. On April 15th, Papa Ray swore on several occasions that he was going to serve UCC.
   On April 15th, Papa Ray swore that on several occasions he would serve UCC.
6. To attain a degree from UCC, you must know that diligence and perseverance are sine qua non.
7. The leaders of the opposition party went to the court on 28th December.
8. Because Winston had won lottery, he didn't go to church.
9. Enjoying the Street Carnival, the students lifted the artiest shoulder high.
10. Only Darius seized the mobile phone that rand at the library.
11. Phones that produce loud sound pose threat to the ear.

15/30

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES

FIRST SEMESTER 2018/2019 ACADEMIC YEAR

COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS: CMS 107

GROUP 44
QUIZ 11

DURATION: 50 MINS

SECTION A (10 Marks)

Some of the verbs in the following passage agree with their subjects, others do not. Identify and correct any subject-verb errors. (Do not copy the passage)

As the country inch towards election 2012, the stakes for power is also becoming higher. That is why the Daily Graphic time and again draw attention to the lack of any definitive time frame for electioneering in Ghana. Thus, even before a new president as well as his cabinet members are sworn in, the battle lines are drawn for the next election sometimes by the Minority and even the ruling party. In other jurisdictions, the president together with members of parliament are given the free hand beyond the traditional 100 days' honeymoon to put his or her house in order.

Perhaps, looking at all that the country have gone through since 1993, and especially over the last two and a half years, it is time for the Inter Party Advisory Committee (IPAC) and other stakeholders to defines a limited political season so that the President and his team is supported to deliver on their mandate.

We know that all over the world governments are unable to fully achieve their mandate, but the situation is worsened if the attention of the Executive members are divided between pursuing its agenda and responding to criticism from opponents of the governments every day. Criticisms of all kind puts governments on their toes but a distinction must be drawn between needless attacks and constructive criticism. Recently, the President and other people raised their voices against the growing incidence of insults and the use of hate language against political opponents.

1. As the country inch towards election 2012, — stakes (wrong)
   As the country inch towards election 2012, — stake (correct)
2. A new president — are (wrong)
   A new president — is (correct)
3. The president together with members of parliament — are (wrong)
   The president together with members of parliament — is (correct)
4. looking at all that the country — have (wrong)
   looking at all that the country — has (correct)
5. and other stakeholders to — defines (wrong)
   and other stakeholders to — define (correct)
6. Criticisms of all kind — puts (wrong)
   Criticisms of all kind — put (correct)
7. The president and other people raised their — voices (wrong)
   The president and other people raised their — voice (correct)

05

SECTION B (10 Marks)

Rewrite the following passage restoring all punctuation marks and capital letters.

whos this tailor old man enquired you need to change your life the old man scolded it is a pity things have turned out that way How I wished my son were around the old man sighed Anyway times are hard so Ill let it go However, remember to buy a new material to replace the spoilt one I need the one that will fit the occasion the old man finally concluded.

"Whos this tailor" old man enquired, "You need to change your life." the old man scolded, "It is a pity things have turned out that way. How I wished my son were around," the old man sighed. "Anyway times are hard so I'll let it go. However, remember to buy a new material to replace the spoilt one. I need the one that will fit the occasion," the old man finally concluded.

06.5

SECTION C (10 Marks)

Re-write the following sentences, correcting any errors you may find without changing the meaning. (10 Marks)

1. Our lecturer informed us that he was going to abroad.
   Our lecturer informed us that, he was going to abroad.
2. It is eminent that we protect ourselves from armed robbers.
   It is eminent that, we protect ourselves from armed robbers.
3. Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet is a masterpiece.
   Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet", is a masterpiece.
4. The lecturer mistakenly packed his car my garage.
   The lecturer mistakenly packed his car in my garage.
5. It is always a preveledge to be a first year student of UCC.
   It is always a privilege to be a first year student of UCC.
6. Everybody was quite when we heard the bad news.
   Everyone was quite when we heard the bad news.
7. All the women came seeking for greener pastures.
   All the women came seeking greener pastures.
8. Although the text was easy, but most of as could not pass.
   Although the text was easy, but most of us could not pass.
9. Jonathan bought some stationary from the bookshop.
   Jonathan bought some statimeries from the bookshop.

03.5

SECTION C

Read the passage below carefully and do the following:

a. Identify the subject-verb agreement errors

b. Correct them

Do not copy the entire passage.

There are lots of facts to know about fungi. A plant without leaves, flowers or green colouring matter and which grow on other plants or decaying materials are called fungus. The cells of fungi are very small and possesses discrete membrane-bound nuclei. The concern of this discourse are to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of fungi to living organisms. A number of research has found some disadvantages of fungi. Fungi are disadvantageous to man because they destroy food, causes foot-rot, produce ringworm, damages industrial equipment and pollutes water. However, fungi are useful in fertilizing the soil and serving as source of food. Available statistics in most countries indicates that soil fungi make up 10 to 30 percent of soil rhizosphere. Furthermore, other advantages of fungi includes their industrial use for baking and brewing medicine and for the manufacture of organic substances.

(15 marks)

SECTION D

Combine the following sentences into a single meaningful sentence by the process or processes shown in bracket.

For example: Kwame pluck the orange. Kwame ate the orange. (Coordination)

Kwame plucked and ate the orange.

1. James always reports to work late. James expects other workers to report on time. (Coordination)
2. The driver is going your way. He can give you a lift. (Subordination)
3. The students can present the assignment online. The students can submit the assignment directly to their lecturer. (Coordination)
4. No one likes cockroaches in their homes. They are very dangerous. They spread dreadful diseases. (Subordination and Coordination)
5. The farmers worked very hard. The harvest was not good. (Subordination)
6. Very often parents annoy their children. Very often parents frustrate their children. (Coordination)
7. The stranger entered the lecture theatre. The instructor stopped speaking. The students were dumbfounded. (Subordination and Coordination)
8. Michael realized he had forgotten the tickets to the match. We missed the first half of the match. (Coordination)
9. The old miser died. His heirs started quarrelling over his property. (Subordination)
10. I left home early this morning. I was delayed in traffic. I missed my appointment. (Subordination and Coordination)

Swabi Incorrect

(15 marks)

42. Equipped with a special night vision, the photographer pointed the camera at the shy deer.
The photographer equipped with a special night vision pointed the camera at the shy deer.

43. This plant with a peculiar odour is of great medicinal value.

44. Iniesta found a television set that had been stolen from me last night in a second hand store.

45. With tired faces, the people on the bus stared at the ceiling or read newspapers.

46. Mr. Johnson advertised for boys that have bicycles tp deliver groceries.

47. Take the dog with a broken leg to an animal hospital.

48. Wearing a bulletproof vest, the newscaster spoke softly into a microphone.
The newscaster wearing a bulletproof vest spoke softly into a microphone.

49. The goggle-eyed fish in the glass bowl amused the boy.

50. The wind coated my glass with a salty film while I was standing at the ocean's edge.

51. The man with a broken arm climbed the ladder

52. The meat which we immediately cooked for lunch came in a can.

53. The fruit which we ate had been carefully wrapped in paper.

54. I discovered an unusual plant that oozed like a milky juice in the garden.

55. Take one of these powders in a little hot water on going to bed.

On going to bed, take one of these powders in a little hot water.

56. It is said that Obama wrote his most famous speech on a scarp of brown paper when he was driving to Gettyburg.

57. With a money-back guarantee, the toaster was sold to us by a charming salesman.

58. Only Christians know that God created heaven and earth.

NB: The construction (58) at the question section could also mean that Christians know only one thing that God created heaven and earth.

59. A baby grand piano with three legs was requested by a woman.

60. Ruth smiled at grandma when Ruth was put in charge of the fashion show.

Ruth smiled at grandma when grandma was put in charge of the fashion show.

61. Prempeh paused as the girl he had been following stopped at a shop window.

62. When Tracy saw Nana Aba, Tracy was wearing a black cauldron, when Tracy saw Nana Aba, Nana Aba was wearing a black cauldron.

63. Deserts are very tempting when one is dieting. The patient noticed/ realized/observed that desserts were very tempting when he was dieting.

64. Cindy dropped out of school on Friday after failing ten courses. i.e. Cindy dropped out of school on Friday.
65. The student wrote a good luck charm which resembled a tiny elephant under his shirt.
66. Still weak with the flu, Roger visited the old house.
67. With a sigh, Twumasi always opens the letters that arrive in the mailbox.
68. Wearing tight jeans, Nyamekye found it difficult to mount the horse.
69. Walking into the room, Richard noticed a crack in the window.
70. Charles ordered a new telephone shaped like a cartoon character from the mail-order catalogue.
71. A well – worn track shoe with holes in it was found in the locker bench.
72. Walking along the city streets, we saw mountains of uncollected trash.
73. I sat on the front steps with my dog while I was reading the newspaper.
Reading the newspaper, I sat on the front steps with my dog.
74. To save money, Mary decided to live with her grandparents when she attended college.
NB: the construction (74) at the questions section could also mean that the purpose for which Mary attended the college was to go and save money.
75. Woyome earned nearly a billion cedi last month.
76. The phone rang almost fifteen times last night.

TEAM ARISE FOR LOCAL NUGS
PRESIDENT 2016/17

77. James bought an old car with a faulty transmission from a fraudster.

78. In his underwear, Francis yelled at the howling dog.

79. I caught almost a hundred lighting bugs.

80. With a broken leg, James couldn't drive to work in his small sport car.

81. We could see the football stadium while we were driving across the bridge.

Driving across the bridge, we could see the football stadium.

82. The suburbs had nearly five inches of rain.

83. I had almost a dozen job interviews after I sent my CV.

84. With envious eyes, the apprentice watched the carpenter expertly fix the door.

The apprentice with envious eyes watched the carpenter expertly fix the door.

85. On their wedding day, John and Mary decided to have two children. (i.e. The decision to give birth to two children was taken on their wedding day but the children will be born in the future)

NB: the construction (85) at the questions section could also mean that the couple had the intention to give birth to two children on that same day of their wedding.

86. For you to pass any examination, you ought to do thorough preparation.

For a student to pass any examination, he/she ought to prepare thoroughly.

87. In a dilapidated old car, the tenants owing two-month rent left town.

The tenants owing two-month rent left town in a dilapidated old car.

88. My mother expected me to do a lot of work although I was only a small girl.

Although only a small girl, I was expected to do a lot of work.

89. He showed the paintings with large patterns to the customer.

He showed the customer the paintings with large patterns.

90. The proprietor would like to ask you as the headmaster something about the school.

91. He brushed his teeth for nearly twenty minutes last night.

92. The priest spoke passionately to the old man and the woman.

The priest spoke passionately to the old man and the old woman.

NB: "The old man and woman" means that the old man is at the same time a woman.

"The old man and old woman" means that the old man is at the same time an old woman. Don't forget to insert a determiner in this instance.

e.g. "The boy and girls are playing on the pitch" should be "the boys and girls are playing on the pitch".

93. Writing desks with Queen Anne legs for sale by a lady.

94. Darius loves Jackie more than he loves McBrown.

Darius loves Jackie more than McBrown loves Jackie/Darius loves Jackie more than McBrown does.

95. We found an experienced tutor for Raymond.

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST
COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND LEGAL STUDIES
FACULTY OF ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES
Course code: CMS 107; Communicative Skills

MENTOR

Selected Reading Materials for Class Exercises

P1

Three passions, simple but overwhelmingly strong have governed my life: the longing for love, the search for knowledge, and unbearable pity for the suffering of mankind. These passions, like great winds, have blown me hither and thither, in a wayward course, over a deep ocean of anguish, reaching to the verge of despair.

I have sought love, first, because it brings ecstasy- ecstasy so great that I would often have sacrificed all the rest of life for a few hours of its joy. I have sought it, next, because it relieves loneliness- that terrible loneliness in which one's shivering consciousness looks over the rim of the world into the cold unfathomable lifeless abyss. I have sought it, finally, because in the union of love, I have seen, in a mystic miniature, the prefiguring vision of the heaven that saints and poets have imagined. This is what I sought and though it might seem too good for human life, this is what at last, I have found.

With equal passion, I have sought knowledge. I have wished to understand the hearts of men. I have wished to know why the stars shine. A little of this, but not much, I achieved.

Love and knowledge, as far as they were possible, led upwards towards the heavens. But always pity brought me back to earth. Echoes of cries of pain reverberate in my heart. Children in famine, victims tortured by oppressors, helpless old people, a hated burden to their sons, and the whole world of loneliness, poverty and pain make a mockery of what human life should be. I long to alleviate the evil, but I cannot, and I too suffer.

This has been my life. I have found it worth living, and would gladly live it again if the chance were offered me.

Autobiography of Bertrand Russel (1872 – 1914)

A Sample Analysis of a text

- Selected Text: Passions of Life – Autobiography of Bertrand Russel (1872 – 1914)

Title: Passions of Life

According to the writer, three passions have controlled his life. These are the desire for love, the quest for knowledge and pity for mankind. Love makes him excited, helps him overcome loneliness and makes him imagine heaven. In addition to love, the writer has sought knowledge in order to understand man, and nature/ natural things / natural phenomenon. Finally, he has sought pity for mankind. Pity is sought because of such unfortunate situations in life: malnourishment of children, the torture of people, the plight of the aged: solitude, impoverishment and suffering. The desire of the writer is to be reincarnated and to experience these passions but this desire, is unachievable.

THE GOVERNOR '23
THE GOVERNOR '23

14. Explain nature and nurture controversy

The nature and nurture controversy is the long-term debate in the study of psychology of human growth and development. It seeks to answer the question, "what makes me who I am?" While proponement of the nature orientation like John Locke believed that nature is of higher influence on human behaviour and growth; protagonists of nurture like J.B. Watson stated that nurture is of higher influence on human behaviour. This controversy till date has not been settled.

15. Explain castration anxiety

Castration anxiety is a condition in boy between the ages of 3 – 6 years during the phallic stage of the psychosexual theory. This condition is experienced after a boy child gets sexually attatched to his mother and in the process find out that mothers genitals are different from his. At this point, the boy sees his father as an obstacle to be removed. The boy with time realises that his father is bigger and stronger than him and can detatch his penis (which he thinks is detatchable). This fear at this stage is what is called castration anxiety.

GOOD LUCK

12. Discuss ONE educational implication of ANY principle of growth and development

Growth and development are influenced by both heredity and environment.
The educational implication of this principle is that, even-though different children may have different intelligence level which is heredity, the teachers knowledge of the above principle must do the best to create a very friendly and conducive environment in the class so as to make learning easier despite the heredity differences among the children.

02

13. Explain two components of personality according to Sigmund Freud.

Sigmund freud proposed three component of personality in his psychosexual theory of development. Below are the explanation of two:

a. Id: the 'id' is the component of personality which operates on the pleasure seeking principle. The 'id' is what causes an individual to feel for hunger, thirst, sex etc. The 'id' is mostly evident in little children who demand without being realistic but rather irrational.

b. Super ego: this component is known as the 'judiciary' of the three components. The super ego seeks for morality and perfection. It rather wants the right way of satisfying the demands of the 'id' rather than the realistic means of the 'ego'

04

SECTION B

Restore all punctuation marks in the following passage.

Few weeks ago, the Kwame Nkrumah university of science and technology was close down indefinitely following a violent demonstration by some students of the university. the demonstration by the students of the university against what they termed tyrannical style of the university administration, turned unpleasant, leading to the massive destruction of public and private property. Media reports indicated that the items destroyed included the following cars, furnitures, computers bill boards flower pots et cetera. It will not be far fetched to conclude that the remote cause of the riot is linked to the decision by the university to convert some of the halls into mixed halls. At a round-table discussion organized by a section of the public to deliberate on the matter at stake, the chairperson remarked lets ensure sanity prevails in our educational institutions therefore we call for an amicable resolution to the current challenges confronting the university.

(10 MARKS)

SECTION C

Read the following passage, and correct any subject-verb agreement errors.

For the past few years and particularly this year, there has been a number of grave concerns expressed by many Ghanaians regarding either safety conditions as well as security that prevails in the country. The migration of people in the major cities with limited chances of gainful jobs have also increased instances of many crimes. This set of unfortunate situations in Ghana lead to the undermining of development and progress of our country if drastic measures, as a matter of fact, is not taken to address them. As a country, we have to take a second look at our security agencies, particularly the Ghana Armed Forces which more often combats criminal activities. The government should resource the security agencies adequately to enable them to fight crime effectively. Even though it is the primary responsibility of the state to ensure the security of either the strong or the weak who lives in the country. We need to understand that security in conjunction with safety mechanisms promote peace and socio-economic development. It is incumbent on the public to report any litany of activities that poses a threat to national security. If we do not solve these problems, the majority is going to be blamed when the situation gets out of control.

(10 MARKS)

SECTION D

Read the following sentences carefully and correct any errors you may find. Do NOT change the original meaning of each sentence.

1. I have no intention to intimidating students in my class.
2. The students agreed with the suggestions of the SRC president.
3. I met the man who you asked to come to my office.
4. Had the students read their notes, they would have been performing well in the examination.
5. An important lesson in life is to learn not cry over spoiled milk.
6. No sooner had the police left the crime scene when the robbers bolted away.
7. Our president seldomly tweets about the plight of his people lately.
8. The myth that men are superior than ~~men~~ women in some parts of the world persists.
9. Unlicensed fishing vessels trolling the waters of the country will be impounded by the state.
10. The minister said students on the gold track will report on the 10th of November.

(10 MARKS)

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST
COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND LEGAL STUDIES
FACULTY OF ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES

CONSTS. EFFECTS AND SOLUTIONS TO TURTLE'S ENDANGER

QUIZ 2 DURATION: 40 MINS

INSTRUCTION: Read the following passage carefully and write an OUTLINE of it.

The sea turtles, especially the leatherbacks, are undoubtedly one of nature's most amazing creatures. They roam the warm seas of the world throughout their lives and come ashore only to lay eggs. Malaysia with its long sandy shorelines has been destined as one of their breeding grounds. Unfortunately, the number of leatherback turtles landing on the beaches has been declining over the years. According to the WWF estimates, about 2000 leatherbacks arrived on Malaysian beaches in 1970. In 1989, only between 30 and 60 leatherbacks were found. The drastic drop within such a short span is certainly a great cause for concern. Where have they gone to? Are they avoiding the beaches ofMalaysia? Whatever it is, the message is disturbingly clear—they may become an extinct species soon, that is, if no concerted effort is taken to check the decline now.

The belief that the declining landings of turtles in Malaysia are the result of increasing landings in others parts of the world is a fallacy. This is because the scenario is the same in other countries known to have been visited by the turtles. What has caused the species to dwindle at such rapid rate? There are many reasons but an obvious one is none other than man's greed. As we know, turtles are killed for their meat. In the days before refrigeration, turtles had been a source of fresh food for the sailing ships. Today, turtle soup is a favourite dish among the Asians. Their shells have become coveted items for decorations and jewelry. Their eggs which are meant to be hatched into young turtles are instead harvested and eaten.When deep sea fishing nets inadvertently trap the turtles, fishermen often kill the turtles instead of cutting their nets to release them. Pollution of the sea has also reduced the number of turtles. Many are choked to death by the plastic bagsthat they mistake for jellyfish. It appears that the turtles are no longer safe in the sea where they spend most of lives.

Neither are they safe when the females come ashore to lay eggs. In fact, this is the time when they are particularly vulnerable as their movements are slow on land. The nesting places for these turtles have also been greatly reduced, as more and more beaches are taken over for tourism with the construction of hostels, chalets and condominiums, the breeding grounds are reduced in the process. The intrusion of tourists into these places makes it difficult for the turtles to lay their eggs. They have to look elsewhere to places that are still quiet and undisturbed to lay their eggs. Unfortunately these ideal places are few to come by now. Too much development has taken place even along the coastline in most countries.

Perhaps all is not lost yet. Sincere efforts are being taken to check the decline. In Malaysia, it is heartening to note that concrete steps have been taken to protect the turtles that come ashore to lay eggs. The indiscriminate collection of turtle eggs on the beaches is no more allowed. Turtle sanctuaries have been set up in RantauAbang in Terengganu. The eggs collected by designated officials are sent to hatcheries in the sanctuaries. In this way, the loss of eggs and the rate of mortality among the baby turtles are reduced. In other words, more baby turtles are now able to return to sea and grow into adulthood.

In an effort to discourage the public from eating turtle eggs, a Turtle Enactment Act has been introduced to prohibit the sale of leatherback eggs. The WWF has also launched the "Save the Turtle Campaign" to create an awareness among the public to help save the endangered species. In this way, the consumption of turtle eggs and perhaps turtle meat will be discouraged, thus putting a stop to the illegal sale of eggs and trapping of turtles. Let us hope that it is not too late to save these fascinating creatures from becoming extinct.

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST
COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND LEGAL STUDIES
FACULTY OF ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION STUDIES

QUIZ 3 DURATION: 40 MINS

Instruction: Correct any concord errors you may find in the passage below. Copy the passage and underline clearly any changes you make.

It has always been proper for every nation to have a long-term plan from which its short and medium-term plans emanates. Even as individuals, we can only lives purposeful lives when we plan, has vision, and even dreams for defined periods. The success of a long-term plan for Ghana will depends on whether we have the basics right for the plan. Abandoning projects which was started by previous governments indicate that basic challenges in implementing such plans, if not addressed, can haunt the achievability and sustainability of any long-term plan. One of the limitations of this write-up are that it cannot belabours and digests all the multi-faceted causes of failures and successes of plans and their antidote. A wide spectrum of issues bordering on land ownership and allocations has become handy basics in considering a long-term planning in Ghana.

WRITE AN OUTLINE FOR THE PASSAGE

SECTION A

Study carefully the passage below, and then write an OUTLINE on it. Provide a title.

In Ghana, like many developing countries around the world, the erosion of traditional lifestyles and diet is largely leading to the increased incidence of diabetes. A lot of people are moving from traditional foods to more processed, polished and animal-sourced foods that are rich in fats and sugars. The prevalence rate or the percentage of Ghanaians who currently have the disease is about 8 percent.

Diabetes is usually classified into types. The first one usually starts from childhood and is also called insulin-dependent diabetes because the clients need insulin to live. This type of diabetes has come to replace other forms previously referred to as juvenile-onset diabetes, childhood diabetes. The second type is also known as non-insulin dependent diabetes because the client has some level of insulin already in their system but what they need is its proper utilization or augmentation of its production. Previously used terms were 'adult-onset' and 'obesity-related'. Other types of diabetes include gestational diabetes, which occurs during pregnancy; congenial diabetes, which occurs at birth; cystic-fibrosis related, which is linked to the disease; and steroid diabetes, which results from over usage of steroid drugs.

Diabetes comes about when the insulin levels in the body are low or the body cannot effectively utilize insulin. The lack of insulin in Type II could be due to attack by a virus known as coxsackie virus or conditions in which the body tends to attack its own body tissues known as autoimmune disorders. Type II diabetes is mainly caused by genetic factors and lifestyle changes, including the use of steroids and conditions of stress. Excessive production of growth hormone in conditions such as Acromegaly and tumours of the adrenal gland, leading to high cortisol production, all result in high sugar level in the blood.

Complications in diabetes could be acute; that is, immediate, as a result of persistent high blood sugar levels or longer term, developing after some years from poor blood sugar control. Acute complications include diabetic ketoacidosis, which is a condition in which persistent high sugar levels lead to various chemical changes which can make the patient get into coma or even death. Other complications include damage to the eyes which affect eyesight, damage to the nerves which affects sensation, and kidney damage. The disease also affects large blood vessels, which ultimately lead to stroke, heart attacks and atherosclerosis. Gestational diabetes or diabetes in pregnancy can also lead to unusually large babies known as macrosomia or other birth abnormalities. Erectile dysfunction in men is a common complication of uncontrolled diabetes and limb amputations may be necessary to save a patient's life.

Patient education is a very important cornerstone in the management of diabetes. Patients are educated on when to eat, what to eat and when and how to take their medication. Patients also need to recognize signs of hypoglycaemia or low blood sugar levels which could result from overdose of drugs. These include sweating, irritability, confusion, blurred vision and collapse. Drugs usually include insulin, sulfonylurea and Biguanide. To prevent the disease, a person must maintain healthy weight, avoid unhealthy foods, stop smoking, reduce alcohol intake and exercise at least three times a week.

Diabetes is on the increase world-wide mainly because of unhealthy lifestyles. It is, therefore, very important that we all take the appropriate measures with the required willpower to prevent getting the disease.

(Culled from the Daily Graphic, November, 16, 2011) (20 Marks)

SECTION B

Punctuate the following passage.

When Bortey went into senior high school his Physics master taught him the basic rule that, while unlike poles strange as it may sound automatically attract each other like poles repel how come Bortey said to himself he remembered how his mother who is also his mentor had tried her

Communicative Skills – Outlining/Summary

Group 12

Passage 1

Armed robbery, one of the social evils in many developing countries, was relatively uncommon in the pre-independence era. Of course, people have been murdered for their money and belongings in the past but never has robbery with violence been experienced on such a wide scale as happens frequently these days.

Prominent among the causes is the ubiquitous influence of crime stories and movies. Conscious of the fact that the youth care for excitement, script writers and film producers concentrate on such blood-curdling incidents as bank robbery, murder and arson. They think mainly of the financial benefits of their enterprises, regardless of their harmful effects on the morals and the behaviour of their impressionable customers. Often these movies depict the use of sophisticated equipment and devices. The idle youth, naturally fascinated by what are shown, try to use them in real life situations.

It is rather unfortunate that, in almost all modern societies, there are always groups of unemployable young people. They are unemployable because they have little or no education and lack skills. What is even worse, these young people are often unprepared for and unwilling to do any manual work to earn an honest living. They tend to blame society for their plight and retaliate by indulging in acts of crime and lawlessness. They grab money and valuable movable property of the lucky rich to enable them survive in a society which seems to ignore them.

The rich, on the other hand, who are mostly the target of armed robbers, provide another cause. Some flaunt their wealth, living ostentatiously, going about in flashy cars and hopping from one hotel to

DESMOND Y. EKLU (THE GOVERNOR)